1970 Kingston Construction Set 2-Year Record

By HUGH REYNOLDS

KINGSTON

The Kingston Building Department issued building permits for an estimated $2,785,000 in "private construction" in 1970, almost double the combined total of the previous two years.

The annual building department report was made public today by City Building Inspector George E. Radcliffe. While "taxable construction" took a marked jump from the $1,467,371 recorded in 1969 and the $1,323,000 recorded in 1968, "non-taxable construction" went from virtually zero in 1969 to almost $5.6 million last year.

Government construction led the list in 1970 with the county infirmary estimated at $3,965,764. Kingston's new city hall is estimated at $946,959 and according to the latest report from the City Hall Committee of the Common Council, will be completed in the summer of this year.

Residential units for the Children's Home accounted for $340,000 of the "nontaxable" total while the administration building at Rondout Gardens accounted for another $160,000. The parking garage on North Front Street in the Uptown urban renewal project accounted for $700,000 in building costs.

While city officials welcome all new construction, it is the taxable construction that brings in revenues. Government buildings are not taxed, be they city, county, state or federal. The Kingston Housing Authority does not pay city taxes nor do non-profit institutions. Likewise, houses of worship do not pay taxes. Agudas Achim built a new synagogue last year at a cost of $150,000.

The city's new private construction leveled off in the early 1960's, hit a peak of $2,800,000 in 1967 but then dropped sharply in 1968 to only $1,323,000. High interest rates and "tight money" were blamed for the building decline during that period.

Commercial building has been the main area of private construction for the past two years and in 1970 accounted for a total of $1,574,300. Dollar-wise that was almost triple the total of $544,500 in 1969 and almost four times the total of $392,254 in 1968.

Additions to existing buildings are usually a major item in new construction with $204,888 being spent last year on that category although it was down considerably from the more than $600,000 recorded in 1969.

New homes are built in Kingston but at a negligible rate compared to new apartment construction. Last year a total of 10 permits were issued for the construction of private residences, valued at $194,649.

In 1969 10 new private residences were built for a total cost of $282,150 compared to only six in 1968 for a total of $190,000.

Apartments, on the other hand, accounted for $300,000 in 1970 with the application of Louis Hess Inc. of New Jersey to begin work on an apartment complex in the old 12th Ward off Fairview Avenue. The $300,000 represents only the first phase of what is expected to be a $2,000,000 complex of garden-type apartments.

Judging from plans already submitted, 1971 could prove to be the "year of the apartments" in Kingston with more than 500 units already on the drawing board. Mayor Francis R.

Koenig closed 1970 with a press conference announcing plans for Dutch Village off Flatbush Avenue which will eventually consist of 216 apartments. Stony Run off Hurley Avenue has announced plans for another 140 units; 100 units are planned by the Urban Development Corporation on a site off Broadway in the downtown urban renewal project and the Hess Project will ultimately total more than 150 units.

Mayor Koenig sees apartment construction as the vehicle for regaining Kingston's lost population (a drop of almost 4,000 in the past ten years, according to the census) and said he will continue his efforts toward new construction.

"This has been our priority area for the past 12 months," he said. "It will remain a priority area."

Koenig pointed out that the new zoning study for the city approved last week, will also act as an aid toward new construction. "When the zoning study is completed," he said, "prospective developers will have an exact picture of what areas are available for what type of construction." That study, at a cost of $10,000, is expected to be completed by June of this year.

The annual building department report also noted a total of $5,262 turned over to the city treasurer from fees collected for building permits.

Nixon Expected To Ease Tax On Business

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP)

— President Nixon may take a personal hand in an expected announcement today that tax burdens on business will be eased—a move aimed at speeding economic expansion.

The only news briefing of the day at the Western White House was scheduled for 3:30 p.m. EST, an unusually late hour coinciding with the closing bell of stock exchanges in New York.

Treasury officials in Washington spent much of Sunday completing drafts of new regulations to grant businesses faster tax writeoffs on amounts they spend on new plant and equipment. The upshot would be tax savings in the billions.

The plan is to permit businesses to deduct more for depreciation of equipment in the earlier years of its use.

Under present depreciation regulations, companies deduct from taxes the cost of equipment on a yearly installment basis taking into consideration the useful life of the machinery.

The presidential panel which devised the new rules said they would reduce government receipts by $1.4 billion in the first year, $3.7 billion in the second and more thereafter.

The idea is to encourage modernization of equipment and expansion of production. In recent months, industries have spent frugally on new plants and machinery.

Nixon who has embraced deficit spending as a means of pumping new life into the sagging economy, has virtually completed work here on the new federal budget for the 1972 fiscal year that begins July 1.

In what he terms an expansionist budget, Nixon is expected to call for federal outlays of at least $225 billion during the bookkeeping year.

The President worked Sunday morning on his State of the Union message at his seaside villa, La Casa Pacifica. In the afternoon he continued his labors at his more elaborate office at the neighboring Western White House.

Since flying here last Tuesday with wife Pat and daughter Tricia, Nixon has taken few breaks from work that Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler reported has averaged 8 to 10 hours daily. Comparable schedules in Washington, he said, often stretch to 16 to 18 hours.

Nixon is expected to return to Washington Thursday. He probably will make an appearance there before members of the Republican National Committee after they formally name a successor to National Chairman Rogers C. B. Morton, who is being nominated to replace the fired Walter J. Hickel as secretary of the interior.

The national chairmanship is expected to go to Sen. Robert Dole of Kansas, a Nixon stalwart. The White House won't comment on that matter, however.

This week Nixon will move into the final stage of preparing his legislative program which will include several measures that died in the last Congress.

He has a commitment from congressional leaders for early consideration of his welfare reform program. He also expects to propose a revenue sharing plan to funnel back to the states and cities as much as $2.5 billion during the first year.

Other high priority items on his agenda were an increase in Social Security benefits retroactive to Jan. 1, and a new national health plan.

WET FEET—President Nixon strolls along Cottons Point Beach near the Western White House at San Clemente, Calif., and gets caught by a wave. Tricia's dog, Pascha, a Yorkshire Terrier, went along with him. Nixon marked his 58th birthday Saturday. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

Jews to Push Anti-Soviet Drive

NEW YORK (AP)—The head of the militant Jewish Defense League says his group will step up its anti-Soviet campaign by forming teams to "trail and harass" Soviet diplomats working here.

"We don't want to build cultural bridges on the bodies of three million Jews," said Rabbi Meir Kahane when asked if his organization's activities might not aggravate Soviet-American relations.

Speaking outside the Soviet mission to the United Nations on East 67th Street, Kahane said Sunday that "the life of each Russian will be made miserable" under the harassment campaign.

The league has spearheaded a number of anti-Soviet demonstrations in recent weeks to protest the condition of Jews living in the Soviet Union and the trial and conviction of 12 persons, most of them Jews, for an attempted hijacking.

In response the Soviet Union has officially protested the campaign. In Moscow over the weekend the cars of three American correspondents were vandalized in apparent retaliation.

Kahane, who founded the JDL in 1968, said he called for harassment of Soviet diplomats after hearing reports of the Moscow incidents.

A few league members followed cars emerging from the mission here Sunday. Police escorted the cars and blocked off the street.

Arkadi V. Gouk, first secretary at the missions, said Sunday night: "Some of our people were followed by some unknown people with provocative purposes. Who they are, we don't know."

He said the diplomats and staff personnel had been followed to their homes and had strain cutting trips away from their guarded "foreign ghetto" apartment buildings to a minimum and arranging to take taxis where trips were unavoidable.

The Soviets warned the United States Tuesday the safety of Americans in the Soviet Union was jeopardized by the attacks of U.S. Zionists on Soviet facilities in America.

Citizens' delegations delivered protest letters to the U.S. Embassy and Soviets harangued Americans in the streets on the subject during the week.

Some Americans showed the

Over the weekend, the character of the response turned ugly in locales that are the pride of the Soviet tourist industry—the scenic Lenin Hills near Premier Alexei N. Kosygin's residence and Gorky Street, Moscow's Fifth Avenue.

During the Saturday morning shopping crush on Gorky Street, within sight of the Kremlin walls, vandals tore into two American-owned automobiles parked in front of the shiny new Intourist hotel.

Jordan, Palestinian Fighting New Threat to Shaky Peace

BEIRUT (UPI)—Heavy fighting broke out today between the Jordanian army and Palestinian guerrillas in Amman and in the Jordan Valley near the ceasefire line, a guerrilla spokesman reported in Beirut. It was the fourth consecutive day of fighting.

The spokesman said Israeli warplanes joined Jordanian army heavy artillery in a joint attack against guerrillas in the Jordan Valley, but Israeli military sources in Tel Aviv described the reports as nonsense. The sources said Israel would not give such reports substance by officially denying them.

With the situation once more threatening civil war, the heads of state of nine Arab nations dispatched aides to Amman today in an effort to end the fighting. Bahi Hadgham, the Tunisian head of the Arab truce commission for Jordan, appealed for an immediate ceasefire.

In the background was a Syrian threat to intervene on behalf of the guerrillas as happened during the September civil war. Syria handed a note to the Jordanian ambassador in Damascus saying it would not stand idly by while the army attacked the guerrillas. The Syrians were driven back in September by the Jordanian air force.

Amman Radio reported Sunday that 400 armed Syrian and Iraqi guerrillas were rounded up Sunday at the Baqaa camp in northern Jordan and transported to the Syrian border in army troop carriers. Another 100 guerrillas of the Syrian-backed al-Saiqa organization returned to Syria today, Amman Radio said.

Meanwhile U. N. mediator Gunnar V. Jarring was back at U. N. headquarters on Israel's proposals for a Middle East peace settlement against a background of new Egyptian threats of war. Even while Jarring flew back to New York from Tel Aviv on Sunday with what Jerusalem sources said were the most detailed Israeli peace proposals yet, Egyptian President Anwar Sadat talked of the possibility of a new war.

In an interview televised Sunday in the United States, Sadat said Israel's territorial ambitions will lead to another war in five years even if a settlement is made in the current conflict. He said, in the interview, filmed in Cairo last week, that "we shall have a new war after five years because Israel wants (Arab territory) from the Nile to the Euphrates."

At Assis in southern Egypt, Sadat repeated Sunday his pledge not to extend the ceasefire, now scheduled to expire Feb. 5, unless serious progress is made toward a settlement of the Jarring talks.

Civil War Relics Stolen

By WALTER S. CLARK

KINGSTON

Police agencies throughout the Mid-Hudson Valley area today combined efforts with local detectives in an investigation of a weekend burglary at the Senate House Museum in uptown Kingston, during which Civil War relics valued at $10,575 were stolen.

The daring break-in which virtually resulted in "cleaning out" the Civil War room at the museum of muskets, rifles, powder horns and other antiques, occurred sometime between 5 p.m. Saturday and 1 p.m. Sunday.

Detective Lieut. Charles McCullough who is directing the investigation with Acting Chief Julius Glassman, said Herbert Cutler, superintendent at the museum, discovered the break-in when he went to the building Sunday afternoon.

McCullough said investigators learned that an attempt had been made to enter the historic building through the basement. A second attempt which proved successful, was made by prying a wooden shutter from a rear window and smashing the glass.

The missing relics of the Civil War had been collected by museum operators over a period of many years, and they comprised one of the major exhibits that are viewed by thousands of visitors to the area during the year.

The intruders literally raided the one room. Police said other areas inside the museum structure evidently had not been ransacked.

McCullough described some of the loot as follows:

A British power musket model 1858, .58-caliber type, with bayonet, valued at $200.

A powder horn, yellow in color, with three ribs on spout to hold cord, and decorations of a scroll, house and church, 14 inches in length, valued at $3,000. A card attached to the horn contains the name of the owner, Montgomerie Reynolds of Woodstock.

A powder horn model 1775, marked John Parker, the owner. It is valued at $2,000 and it is 16 inches in length, with outer curve 18 inches.

A dark carved powder horn, greenish tint, with decorated copper band containing engravings of the Hudson and Mohawk Rivers and British coat of arms. Value $2,500.

A U.S. Flintlock musket, model of 1808, made at Springfield Armory and marked 1810. Valued at $500.

A Civil War musket, model 1861, made by William Mason, Taunton, Mass. Valued at $300.

Court to Hear Clay Case

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court agreed today to examine the conscientious objector claims of former heavyweight champion Cassius Clay on his draft evasion conviction.

Clay, who now prefers the name Muhammad Ali, is scheduled to fight present champion Joe Frazier for the title March 8.

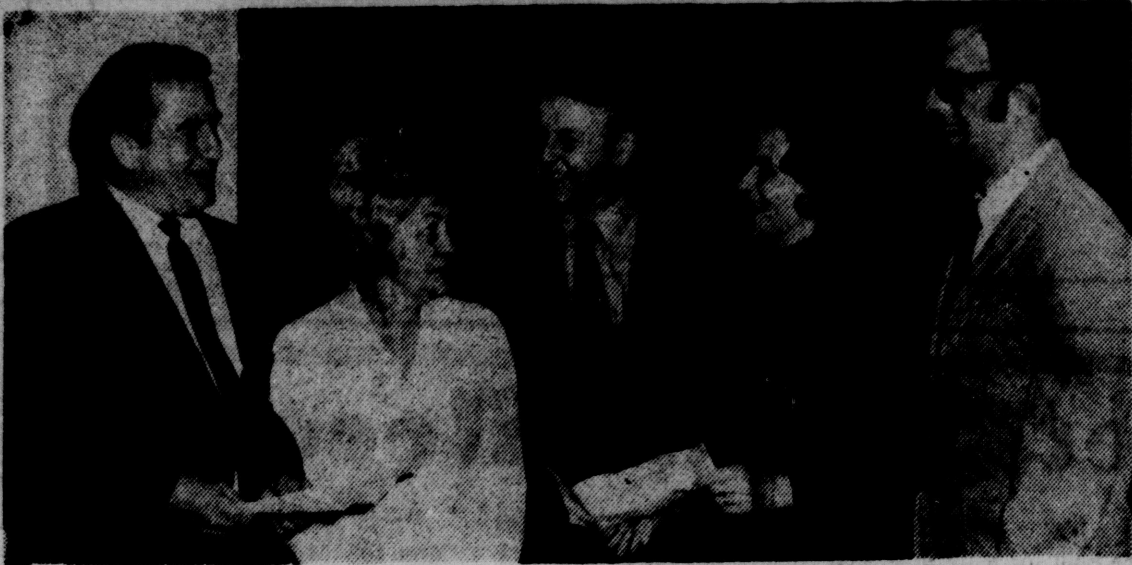

The high court will hear the case later this term and decide by written opinion.

The 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals has twice upheld Clay's conviction, most recently on July 6, 1970. The 5th Circuit basically rejected Clay's claim that wiretapping figured in the government's prosecution.

Clay was sentenced to five years in prison and given a $10,000 fine on Sept. 14, 1970 by Circuit Judge Joe M. Ingraham, who was then a trial judge in Houston.

SOVIET JEWRY RALLY—The treatment of Jews in the Soviet Union was topic of discussion at a Kingston Jewish Community Council sponsored rally Sunday night at Congregation Ahavath Israel. Congressman Hamilton Fish Jr. discusses his upcoming trip to the Soviet Union with Barry Axler (C) executive director of the Jewish Council and Connie Pollack, a consultant on Soviet affairs who presented a first hand report on the condition of Jewish life in Moscow. More than 200 persons attended the meeting and joined in prayers that it will no longer be a crime to be born a Jew or remain a Jew in the Soviet Union. (Freeman photo by Haines.)

VICTORY DINNER PLANS — A victory cocktail party and dinner honoring Richard Sickler, newly elected Esopus Town councilman will be sponsored by Town of Esopus Democratic Club Saturday at the Capri Restaurant, Port Ewen. Discussing the event here are (L-R) Supervisor George H. Green; Vi Noonan, dinner chairman; Sickler, the guest of honor; Marilyn Coffey, publicity chairman and Louis Klein, town attorney. Reservations may be made by contacting any member of the committee. (Freeman photo by Kruh).

Housing Authority Chairman

Yerry Elected to 17th Term

KINGSTON — George E. Yerry Jr., was elected to serve as chairman of the Kingston Housing Authority for the 17th consecutive year. Yerry has been a member of the Authority since it was formed in November of 1948. At the annual meeting of the Authority, which was held this past week, Benjamin A. Storms was elected vice-chairman; Doris Dabney Sr., treasurer; Robert P. Slover, secretary and Stanley J. Petro Jr., assistant secretary. Alexander Yosman serves as executive director and Harry Gold as counsel. Commissioners of the authority serve without pay. Others in attendance at the meeting were Commissioner William F. Myers, John J. O'Rourke, Samuel David and Melvin Julis of the State Division of Housing, Mayor Francis R. Koenig, Alderman-at-Large T. Robert Gallo, Majority Leader Edward Norton and Minority Leader John Machione. The following is a summary of the operating of the Kingston Housing Authority for the years 1970. As of December 31 the authority had in occupancy 130 families at Colonial Gardens, 131 families at Rondout Gardens, 2 families in leased housing and 15 families in authority-owned individual housing for a total of 338 units. Of this total 60 units are for two person senior citizen occupancy, 104 units for one person senior citizen occupancy and 174 units for standard family occupancy. A total of 190 units are state-aided developments and 148 units are federal-aided developments. The total number of persons residing in Housing Authority Developments is 919. During 1970, 28 families moved from Colonial Gardens of which five purchased homes, of apartments by the authority five tenants moved from Wiltwyck Gardens. 17 tenants collected rent or charges. The family from Rehab. Since Colonial Gardens opened in August of 1953, 367 families have moved of which number 166 purchased homes. As of December 31, 1970 all rents and charges have been collected and no tenant was in arrears in any unit operated by the authority. Since the start of management

The authority has at present $173,000 in reserve funds for state operated projects. These funds are invested in U.S. government securities as well as in savings accounts at local financial institutions. The purpose for these funds are to keep both developments up to standards so when the time comes to turn them over to the City of Kingston they will be in good condition. From 1953 to date the authority has earned $48,743.81 interest on its investments. Total development cost of all state developments amount to $2,900,000 and $3,150,000 for all federal developments for a total development cost in excess of $6,000,000.

Included in the federal project amount is the cost of purchasing 15 homes and constructing the Administration Building at Rondout Gardens. This building, which is now occupied, provides facilities for authority offices, maintenance shop, a laundry room, Senior Citizen Lounge and meeting hall.

Mishaps Kill Three in Orange, Dutchess

By JON POWERS

TOWN OF NEW WINDSOR

Two persons were killed and three others seriously injured Sunday night when the car in which they were riding went out of control on a highway in this Orange County township and flipped over a stone wall.

Earlier Sunday, a five-year-old Dutchess County boy died of injuries sustained when his sled was struck by a Penn Central passenger train near Dover Plains.

There were no accidental deaths reported in Ulster County over the weekend and area highways were free of serious auto mishaps.

Killed in the 8:15 p.m. crash on Route 94 in Orange County were Joseph Brady, 19, and Dennis Hannigan, 20. Injured and reported in satisfactory condition today at St. Luke's Hospital in Newburgh were Lowell Mullins, 22, Edward Hannigan, 22, and Ronald Puetz, 30, the driver of the vehicle. All were from Newburgh.

A New Windsor Town Police spokesman said that the auto was traveling east on Route 94, about one quarter mile south of Route 9W and rounding a sharp curve when the accident occurred.

The vehicle, police said, went off the left side of the road and flipped over a stone wall. It traveled 50 feet in the air, authorities added, before striking a large tree.

Brady and Hannigan were pronounced dead at the scene. The other three sustained extensive internal injuries. Puetz, noted police, was ejected from the car when it struck the stone barrier.

Puetz was ticketed by police for driving while intoxicated and speed not reasonable and prudent. He will answer the charges upon his release from the hospital.

Five-year-old Albert Acklin of the Dutchess County hamlet of Ontonagon died in a Connecticut hospital several hours after he was struck by a train Sunday afternoon.

Dover Plains State Police said the boy, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Acklin, was sleigh riding down an embankment that terminated at the edge of the railroad tracks in front of his home shortly after noon.

The child's sleigh traveled down the hill and up over a small rise onto the tracks where it was struck by a north-bound Penn Central passenger train.

The boy was rushed to the Sharon, Conn., Hospital where he died shortly after admission, according to state police. No charges were filed against the train's engineer.

Murder Panel Selection Continues

By WALTER S. CLARK

KINGSTON

Counsel in the case of two men accused of the 1968 murder of a deputy sheriff on the Thruway near Plattekill, today resumed examination of potential jurors for the trial that entered its fifth day today before County Judge Raymond J. Mino.

The original panel of 125 jurors was exhausted before court recessed Friday afternoon with eight jurors seated for the trial. Judge Mino said a second panel was notified to report this morning. A ninth juror was accepted today.

The defendants, Charles Culhane and Gerald McGivern, are accused of the fatal shooting of William Fitzgerald, 63-year-old Westchester County deputy sheriff during an alleged escape try as the defendants and a third inmate at Auburn Prison were being transported to White Plains for a hearing on a writ on Sept. 13, 1968.

The third inmate, Joseph Bowman, also was fatally wounded during the incident. The first trial of the pair last June ended in a mistrial, when the jury of nine men and three women reported they were hopelessly deadlocked and could not agree on a verdict.

Attorneys in the case are Paul Vladimir, counsel for Culhane and Joshua N. Koplovitz, who represents McGivern. Both defendants have entered pleas of

Second Liberty St. Blaze

KINGSTON

Fire officials and Kingston detectives today continued investigation of fire of undetermined origin that occurred Sunday night in a 2-story frame barn at 37 Liberty Street.

A previous fire of incendiary origin extensively damaged the building last Nov. 29.

Fire units in charge of Deputy Chief Hugh Greer were dispatched to the scene at 8:09 p.m. on a bell alarm and on arrival firefighters discovered fire sweeping through a storage room in the rear of the structure owned by Joseph Joyce of 126 Prospect Street.

Engine 2 firemen laid two 1½ inch pump streams that were used to quell the blaze. The building is occupied by Donald Sickler of 138 Newkirk Avenue for storage.

Responding to the alarm in addition to Engine 2 were Engine 1, Trucks 1 and 2 and Wicks Salvage. Other companies were alerted and covered Central Station until fire units reported back in service at 9:24 p.m.

Stopped on the Taconic Parkway in the Town of Clinton at 4 p.m. Sunday for a routine vehicle and traffic check, Louis Ciraco, 30, of Yonkers, was later cited by State Trooper J. R. Martino for narcotics charges.

Ciraco was arraigned on charges of criminal possession of dangerous drugs sixth degree and criminal possession of an implement adapted for administering drugs. He pleaded guilty to the charges before Clinton Town Justice William Tompkins and was fined a total of $500. He paid the fines.

According to troopers, Ciraco had in his possession a quantity of marijuana, LSD and amphetamines and a pipe.

Demo Chairman Asks All Vote On Ulster Site

TOWN OF ULSTER

All registered voters in the Town of Ulster were urged to cast ballots in the special proposition on a new Town of Ulster building Tuesday at previously announced polling places by Robert Hayes, town Democratic chairman who also offered information to consider before voting.

"There is no doubt that the Town of Ulster needs a town office building complex. The conditions under which some of our elected officials are asked to work is simply atrocious. This is probably the most important issue in the proposal," Hayes said.

Voting hours 1 to 8 p. m. Tuesday on Town of Ulster Building Other Story Page 12.

"However, there are several other things which must be considered before voting," he said. "First is the fact that the building proposal calls for construction on the same unacceptable parcel of land as the previous proposals. Secondly is the question why is only one building being offered for $350,000 when we were offered two buildings for $250,000 two years ago."

"The proposal will increase the tax rate nearly $3 per thousand dollars of assessment. This is in addition to the $4 per thousand increase from the many unnecessary increases in the Town Budget for 1971. Also to be considered is the additional assessment being made on the Ulster Sewer District taxpayers this year," he said.

"It appears that the taxpayers of the Town of Ulster are being asked to bear an extra heavy financial burden in 1971. I hope that this information will be helpful in the final decision before casting the vote on Tuesday. By all means, everyone should cast a vote, no matter what that vote may be, he said.

Mid-Hudson Industrial Assn. Sets Legislative Dinner

FISHKILL
The 1971 Legislative Dinner of The Mid-Hudson Industrial Association will be held Thursday, Jan. 14, at the Holiday Inn, Fishkill.

Invitations to the event have been accepted by Senators Jay P. Rolison (Dutchess and Ulster) and Richard E. Schermerhorn (Orange and Rockland) as well as Assemblymen H. Clark Bell (Ulster), Emeel Betros (Dutchess), and Willis H. Stephens (Dutchess and Putnam).

MHIA Executive Vice President William K. Hayes

stressed that the purpose of the annual event is "two-way communication rather than a series of speeches". He noted that "State political leaders are sending up trial balloons on another large increase in taxes although the latest figures show that New York continues to lead the national in the per capita rate of State and local taxation — $575 against a national average for all States of $380.

"And New York continues as the only State in the nation other than Rhode Island which declares outright to employers that it is not neutral in labor disputes, that it believes in fostering prolonged strikes by payment of unemployment benefits to strikers after 7 weeks — with such payments to be charged against struck employer. We will be talking to our legislators about these things on the 14th" added Hayes.

The dinner will begin at 7 p.m. preceded by a cocktail hour at 6 p.m. MHIA President Curtis Williams will preside. John J. Kuhn, Public Relations Consultant to Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corporation, will be Master of Ceremonies.

White Star Transfer Company Acquired From Mrs. Wells

PORT EWEN Mrs. Florence Wells has announced her retirement from the household goods moving industry after the sale of the White Star Transfer Company, Inc., of Port Ewen recently. Her retirement marks the end of a 36 year career in the industry. White Star Transfer Company, Inc., was formed in 1934 by Leroy Wells, who actively managed the operation of the company until his death in 1962. Mrs. Wells continued the operation of the company until Nov. 1970. In addition to active participation in the affairs of the company, Wells also expressed interest in the moving industry on a statewide basis. Working in conjunction with his wife, he prepared the first New York State Mover's Tariff, a set of rules and regulations governing the operation of the moving industry within the State of New York. Many of the rules introduced by Wells are still in effect today. The company was purchased by Leland Kimball and Jesse Soechting, president of the J. J. Soechting Co., Inc., and the newly appointed president of the White Star Transfer Co., Inc., stated recently, "We are looking forward with confidence that this acquisition, including additional equipment and operating authority, will permit us to better serve the moving needs of residents and corporations of the Mid-Hudson Valley."

ANOTHER DERAILMENT . . . THIS TIME IN PHOENICIA

It's a Hard Road For Penn Central

By ALBERT J. CAWEIN

KINGSTON The financially besieged Penn Central (railroad) Company, as if it didn't have enough problems, had four freight derailments in Ulster County in the past 10 days.

So far no one has been reported injured in the derailments. However, city and county legislative bodies have expressed concern for the safety of their constituents and have passed protest resolutions.

The Common Council Tuesday night approved a resolution 13-0 calling for the petitioning of the Department of Transportation, the Public Service Commission, the governor, State Sen. Jay P. Rolison (R-Ulster-Dutchess) and Assemblyman H. Clark Bell of Woodstock to investigate the matter.

The County Legislature also took action. Majority Leader Douglas V. Dye, 2nd District Republican, who has had two derailments in his district said the County Legislature is looking into the matter as a safety measure for those who reside near the railroad's right-of-way.

No official explanation has been given for the derailments. Police agencies investigating have attributed at least one of these to the weight of snow spreading the rails.

A Penn Central office spokesman in New York City in a statement last week said most of the maintenance officials are out in the field checking these derailments and cannot be reached for comment. "No definite cause of the derailments has as yet been reached," the statement said. "While the cars are being retracked and repairs made to the tracks, a single-line road, all traffic is being detoured over other lines of the Penn Central."

The tracks, which are regularly inspected, are safe for authorized speeds. A thorough inspection will be completed before the line is reopened to traffic," the statement concluded.

The four derailments in the past 10 days come on top of a 1969 and 1970 record of several and within a seven-month period from May to December 1969, seven have been reported in the county. Last year the problem was cleaning up the debris from various previous derailments where cars and smashed cargo was left by the right-of-way. Most of these were finally cleaned up last year.

Special

The Town of Ulster has had its share. One derailment on the morning of Nov. 12, 1969 was at most at the identical spot in Lake Katrine where 16 freight cars and three engines jumped the rails last Sunday.

The West Camp derailment in the Town of Saugerties on Dec. 27 was on a stretch of rails between Malden and West Camp where earlier in the year a train load of new cars was dumped along the right-of-way.

On New Year's Day 16 freight cars jumped the track in the vicinity of Hercules Inc., powder plant at Port Ewen. This mishap was at about 10 a.m. when a 28-car train was en route from Selkirk to its New Jersey terminal.

In May of 1969 a 47-car derailment in Lake Katrine slammed into a propane gas tank and officials were deeply concerned with the dangerous situation when it was feared the tank might explode.

The City of Kingston also has had its derailment problems. On Nov. 7 of 1969 four coal-laden cars moving through the city were upset near the Rondout Gardens, spilling out more than 100 tons of coal. This was in an area where children sometimes play.

Early in February last year a Freeman inquiry brought a reply from Transportation Superintendent G. T. Dailey of Penn Central, who gave several reasons why freight trains become derailed.

Dailey, at that time said, "In the transportation of freight there are many moving parts in addition to the facilities which are inspected on a regular basis to insure that standards are maintained."

"In addition, the volume by weight requires equipment and facilities to meet specifications for the transport of large quantities."

"It can be appreciated that with so many factors involved, even with constant inspections and maintenance, situations have developed on account of mental fatigue, etc.," he said.

The most recent derailment occurred at noon Tuesday when seven freight cars loaded with pipes and the engine jumped the track near the Bridge Street crossing and Woodland Valley Road at Phenicia.

No injuries were reported by the Sheriff's Department investigating.

At least two town supervisors in town's involved said at various times last year that they did not want to press the railroad too strongly to clear the right-of-ways of debris and one said he did not feel it right to "hit them while they were down."

However, this attitude is rapidly changing as the safety of their constituents are involved and in addition these town may have difficulty in collecting taxes from the bankrupt line.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, JANUARY 11, 1971

Effect of Youth Voting

What influence will the voting of under 21-year-olds have on the national election in 1972? That is the question the major parties are mulling over since the Supreme Court gave the green light to citizens 18 to 21 to vote for President and members of Congress.

Richard Scammon, former director of the U.S. Census Bureau and an expert on voting behavior, said the impact of the youth vote will depend on three factors: how many vote, how they vote and how close the election may be. He guessed the impact might be modest. The critical question will be the size of the turnout among the under 21. He offered these factors:

Roughly 11.5 million Americans from ages 18 to 21 will be potential voters in 1972. They make nine per cent of the 127 million 21 and over who will be eligible to vote.

In those states where under 21 voting is now permitted, only one-third of the youngsters actually cast ballots for President in 1968. Twice as many over 21 voters exercised their right to vote.

Until now, state residency requirements posed problems for college students and other highly mobile young voters who have not yet settled in place. The Supreme Court upheld a new law which reduces residency requirements to a mere 30 days, but this is expected to have only limited effect.

The consensus of independent political analysts, staff members of the major political parties and other students of the recent voting performance of youths indicates that, while the decision has changed American political voting overnight, the change will not have much effect on the outcome. In substantiation, in late November a California poll reported that the under 21 voter preferred Democrat Jess Unruh over Gov. Ronald Reagan 52 to 34 per cent. Reagan won the election 53 to 45 per cent.

All group votes count. Like the women's vote, youths do not vote in blocs.

No Peace Dividend

President Nixon will find that the peace dividend he hoped to channel into health and education when the Vietnam war was wound down is a myth. Inflation has eaten up this expected reserve, according to Robert C. Moot, comptroller of the Department of Defense.

Moot explained the disappearance of the expected savings in this way: The cut in Pentagon spending from $78 billion to $71.8 billion resulted in plowing back $6.2 billion into the civilian economy; pay raises for military and civilian personnel took up another $4.6 billion; there was a boost of $300 million in military retirement pay; that accounts for $11.1 billion as compared to a cut of $10 billion in military spending, or another gouge of $1.1 billion from the military budget. In addition, defense, like other federal agencies, is paying more for the same goods and services due to inflation.

Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird uses these figures to justify the cuts in defense personnel from 3.5 million when President Nixon took office to 2.9 million today and the 2.5 million he projects when the Vietnam war is wound down.

Despite these personnel cuts, Laird says to keep spending at "rock bottom" and finance modernization of the military services. Defense spending will go up next year for the first time in three years. Pay raises, combined with the impact of inflation, will force a reversal of the downward trend. Another good way to stem inflation is to get the most out of defense spending.

David Lawrence Says U.S. Will Not Get Out Of Vietnam Altogether

WASHINGTON — Will the war in Vietnam really "end" for the United States in 1971 or 1972 or even within the next ten years?

While much emphasis has been placed on "withdrawal" of American troops, the underlying facts about America's continued presence in South Vietnam to protect the independence of that small country, for which so many sacrifices have been made, are not widely understood.

The United States plans to withdraw its "ground combat" troops, but it intends to leave forces which will supply air and artillery support, logistics and security. The United States has maintained some divisions in South Korea under the auspices of the United Nations since 1953, and undoubtedly this has prevented the outbreak of another war in that area.

Secretary of Defense Melvin Laird has just said that most U.S. troops "with combat responsibility" will be withdrawn by the first of May and that those who will remain will be "assigned security roles." They will be available to deal with emergency situations which might arise to threaten the safety of American personnel. President Nixon in his television conference with newsmen last Monday night declared:

"I have no desire to resume the bombing of North Vietnam. We do not want to go back to the bombing of the strategic targets in North Vietnam, and we do not want even to bomb military targets unless it becomes necessary to do so, and this is the key point — to protect American forces."

"We must realize, however, as Secretary Rogers pointed out in his news conference at the State Department a few days ago, that in May of this year, most American combat forces, ground combat forces, will have been withdrawn from Vietnam. But there will still be 280,000 there left to withdraw."

"Now, the President of the United States, as Commander-in-Chief, holds a responsibility to those men to see that they are not subjected to an overwhelming attack from the north. That is why we must continue reconnaissance, and that is why also, if the enemy at a time we are trying to de-escalate, at a time we are withdrawing, starts to build up its infiltration, starts moving troops and supplies through the Mu Gia Pass and the other passes, then I, as Commander-in-Chief, will have to order bombing strikes on those key areas."

The announced policy of the President refers, of course, to all American forces in Vietnam and not just to the combat troops which are in process of being withdrawn. If, for example, 40,000 or 50,000 servicemen are on duty in South Vietnam for the next several years, it will be the President's obligation to protect them against attacks that might be launched from the north.

It undoubtedly will sooner or later dawn on the North Vietnamese that the United States is not going to get out of Vietnam altogether, as it is questionable whether any peace agreement will ever be reached in Paris. The Hanoi government is bound to wait until after American troop withdrawals have been virtually completed before a renewed effort is made to take over South Vietnam. Then will come the real test of "Vietnamization."

Military men and administration officials generally are confident that the South Vietnamese are becoming strong enough to withstand any aggressor who may launch ground attacks. If the South Vietnamese have difficulty in resisting successfully, the United States would have to decide whether it should bomb bases north of the demilitarized zone in order to protect its own troops remaining in South Vietnam as well as the army developed by the Saigon government.

There is a feeling here that our military advisors have done an effective job in training officers for the South Vietnamese army and that real progress has been made through the "Vietnamization" program in building up and equipping a defensive force that may be in excess of a million men. Lots of assistance has been given, too, in furnishing coastal vessels and other ships that can help in carrying on the war along the bordering seas and inland waterways.

But so far as an "end of the war" is concerned, military men do not expect it for a long time, though Americans stationed in South Vietnam will be fewer and fewer as the years go on.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

The college I might have attended—but didn't—is St. Peter's in Jersey City. It was down in Paulus Hook, not far from the Hudson River ferries—an array of fiery red brick buildings which contained a similar array of intractable boys, ruled by Jesuits with cast-iron heads.

It is all a long way back, but a letter has arrived from the president, Father Victor R. Yanitelli, stating that St. Peter's is about to celebrate its 100th anniversary and inviting me to be a member of the council. Well, certainly. If you can't go to college, the next best thing is to live long enough to be invited to serve on a council.

Especially when no work is involved. In retrospect, I wonder why I sought strong discipline in schools. Most children, at home or at school, subconsciously act like corks trying to find the outer edges of a corral. When they find it, they leap and break a leg. St. Patrick's, which is further up the hill, was taught by the sweet demure Sisters of Charity, who could swing a ruler from left field and find your knuckles with a complete follow through. The kids called me "lumpy hands." Mine looked like varnished Vienna bread fresh from the oven.

I never got to St. Peter's. My family wasn't poor, but it wasn't solvent either. At night, my mother sewed rosettes on ladies' garters at a penny apiece and she tried to average a gross a night. I took a job as a Wall Street runner for Lehman Brothers and earned $12 a week. Ten went to the house.

Sometimes, on my way to the ferry, I would walk, running my fingers along the bricks of St. Peter's. Just feeling them made me certain that it was my college, though no one inside shared the feeling. The Jesuits used to say: "Give us the boys; we will make men of them."

This is an incomplete credo. The last part goes: "Or we'll cripple them." Will Durant, the philosopher, graduated from St. Peter's and became an atheist overnight. Some like the corrective corral; others enjoy breaking a leg. They had a little priest who used to teach mathematics. The giants on St. Peter's football team enjoyed taunting him because he was one Jeannie they could take. In an encounter of insolence, he would permit the boy to go just so far, then the challenge was issued.

"Would you like to step out in the alley with me?" the priest would ask softly. The boy would smile pityingly. "I can't hit you, Father. You have a Roman collar on." "Please," the priest would say, "let us not be formal." He would remove the collar and unbutton the black cassock.

The priest must have been part bat. In the alley next to the fire escape, he would wait for the boy to put his fists up, and then would fly at over him like some demented thing trying desperately to defy gravity. The teacher always returned winded, rolling his sleeves down, murmuring: "Somebody get a cold wet towel for his eyes."

Jack Anderson Says Hoover's Top Aide Is Sick Man, Creates Morale Problem

WASHINGTON—The FBI is run by two fading old crime-fighters, J. Edgar Hoover and Clyde Tolson, both bachelors, both in their 70s. Both deserve to retire to a place where the pace and weather are kinder on the bodies of old men whose work is completed.

Tolson is so feeble, in fact, that Hoover had to use a loophole in the law to keep him on the job without taking a physical. Our investigation indicates that Tolson belongs in a nursing home, not at the helm of the FBI.

Edgar and Clyde, as the pair are known irreverently in law enforcement circles, are inseparable companions. They not only quarterback the FBI together; they also lunch together, dine together and spend their leisure together. They slip off to the Maryland race tracks, vacation beside the Pacific at La Jolla, Calif., and soak up the sun at Key Biscayne, Fla.—always together.

The 76-year-old Edgar has survived the years better than the younger 70-year-old Clyde. We have learned that Tolson has suffered a series of minor strokes and has received delicate aortic surgery.

We not only had access to the medical evidence but, in FBI fashion, we interviewed Tolson's friends, neighbors and associates. Neighbors told how his brisk step has now slowed to a painful shuffle as he gamely climbs into his car to go to work every day.

Associates said his steel-trap mind now sometimes seems vague, and he has occasional speech lapses. At times, his voice becomes more than a tremulous rasp.

We also kept Hoover and Tolson under surveillance. FBI style, once while they lunched together at the Mayflower Hotel's Rib Room, the contrast between the two old friends was sad. The older was still ruddy and erect. But Tolson showed his failing health. His skin was fleshy and sallow. One arm and one leg seemed affected by his illnesses.

Hoover's Maneuver

When Tolson reached the mandatory retirement age of 70 last May, Hoover performed some bureaucratic sleight of hand to keep his friend by his side.

A presidential waiver to stay on the job, such as Hoover has received, was out of the question. This would have required Tolson to take a vigorous physical examination to make sure age hadn't sapped his vitality. He never could have passed.

So Hoover, with the concurrence of Attorney General John Mitchell, simply allowed Tolson to "retire," then to return as a "reemployable annuitant." This is a technical term used to describe a retired specialist whose services are so urgently needed that he is brought back to complete a vital mission.

As a "reemployable annuitant," Tolson is technically retired and, therefore, needn't submit to a physical. He draws his government pension, and the FBI pays him an additional amount to make up the difference between his pension and full FBI salary.

From FBI agents, both active and retired, we found that Hoover is still widely revered. But the enfeeblement of Tolson has caused a morale problem inside the FBI. Agents question whether he is competent to handle his heavy responsibilities.

More than one former FBI official has quit in despair over ever reaching the top. They told us Hoover wanted to keep Tolson as long as the old gentleman could make it to the office.

"You can't blame the old men," said one former aspirant to FBI power. "They've outlasted everybody else."

Footnote: The Byzantine secrecy at the FBI has hidden Tolson's condition not only from the public but from Washington officialdom.

Washington Expose

Agnew Notified — Liberals are chortling over reports of estrangement between President Nixon and Vice President Agnew. As evidence, the word has spread that Nixon didn't even bother to tell Agnew about John Connally's appointment as Treasury Secretary. There have been hints that Connally, a former Texas governor and political protégé of ex-President Lyndon Johnson, might get Agnew's job in 1972. The liberal rejoicing is premature. Nixon personally ordered White House aides to notify Agnew of Connally's appointment several hours before the story broke. Agnew took the call at Air Force Two as it dropped down at LaGuardia airport during an Agnew stopover in New York City. In fact, the White House called back a second time to make sure the Vice President got the word.

Drug Story—The politically potent pharmaceutical industry has brought pressure on the White House to bar a vital imported drug that is selling for one-half the price of its U.S. equivalent. The drug is "ampicillin," a penicillin substitute used for urinary tract ailments and other diseases, many of them occurring in the elderly. Italian-made ampicillin is selling in this country for $10 per hundred. The American producers, who charge about $20 per hundred, are trying to bar the cheaper Italian product. A British firm called Beecham, which holds the patent and has licensed five U.S. drug giants to manufacture ampicillin, has asked the U.S. Tariff Commission to find that the Italian product poses an "immediate and substantial" threat. Two of the four commissioners have bought the argument. The White House has also shown more interest in protecting the drug companies' profits than in providing cheaper drugs for the sick.

Stiff Tests This Year for Saigon

By BRUCE BLOSSAT

NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA)

The year 1971 will sharpen problems for South Vietnam in three critical fields — internal security, the economy, and politics — with fall elections for president and the full lower legislative house providing the stiffest test for Saigon.

The internal security situation gets little attention here, but it warrants more. Knowledgeable sources estimate that Hanoi has about 50,000 below-surface agents in its true infrastructure in South Vietnam.

Contrary to common report, only a fairly small number of these secret cadres surfaced in the famous 1968 Red Tet offensive and were either killed or caught. Basically, the structure is intact.

In the event of a Communist victory, these hidden Red elements would be expected to emerge and take political and social control of the conquered lands.

Their undercover function is the constant recruiting of what some Vietnam specialists call the "springboard" forces of the Viet Cong. These are the guides, porters, couriers and other intermediate paramilitary personnel without which the real combatants cannot move well. It was their ranks which were badly decimated in Tet 1968, and they have never been fully replaced.

Yet the potential is there so long as the hidden recruiters exist in large numbers, and it is police work to ferret them out. One source suggests that Saigon's national police force needs to be boosted from a present 80,000 to 120,000 men before real progress can be made.

But the war and its attendant burdens already have placed crushing strain upon the South Vietnam economy. The rampant inflation is a well-told story. There are countless other dislocations.

Not the least difficulty is that as U.S. forces in the country are pulled out, heavy support funds spent there go with them. President Nixon may very well recommend at least doubling of foreign economic assistance to Saigon for fiscal 1972 to help compensate for this developing gap.

The South Vietnam economic outlook is not, however, totally dark. The country has had a record rice harvest. Not only the United States but prospering Japan and West Germany are investing in new industrial capacity for the struggling South Vietnamese. To fuel this growth with manpower, the nation can draw on a rising number of qualified technicians trained in varying army service.

Even if there are no battlefield disasters and the superheated, ragged economy cools a great deal, the political ordeals of September and October must still be surmounted.

In 1970 South Vietnam chose a new Senate with no loud complaint from outsiders that the incumbent Thieu-Ky regime blocked free political processes. There is confidence in some official circles here that the September vote for a complete new lower house can be brought off, under some external supervision, with a minimum of trouble.

The Oct. 3 election of a president may be harder going. President Thieu is, of course, a candidate for reelection. At this writing, his likeliest significant rival seems to be Major Gen. Duan Van Minh, otherwise known as "Big Minh."

Power Struggle Rules Kremlin

NEW YORK (NEA)

The big question about Russia troubling the Nixon administration at the beginning of 1971 is how long the Brezhnev-Kosygin team will survive in Moscow.

In the President's view, an understanding between the United States and the Soviet Union is the key to detente in the Middle East, Indochina and Europe.

But will the men likely to succeed Communist party chief Leonid Brezhnev and Premier Kosygin pursue a "softer" or "harder" policy in international affairs? Will they agree, among other things, to a realistic solution of the thorny West Berlin problem?

No one knows the answer. However, one thing is certain: A struggle for power among the Kremlin's "collective leaders" was brewing throughout 1970.

They are now engaged in a grand debate about domestic and foreign policy which will culminate in the 24th Communist party congress in March. So far none of the big controversial questions has been settled.

As the party's secretary, Brezhnev still wields enormous power. He postponed the congress twice in order to consolidate his position. This gave him time to replace potential opponents in key jobs with loyal men.

He is also believed to have the backing of the older army generals who, as an East European diplomat said, "were brought up on horse power."

But the "sclerosis" of Brezhnev's mediocre leadership has been condemned by younger members of the all-powerful Politburo, including Aleksandr Sholepov and Kiril Mazurov. They, in turn, reportedly have the support of the younger "missile generals" who undoubtedly represent the best scientific brains in Russia today.

Like the nuclear physicist Andrei Sakharov and other dissident scientists and writers, the "missile generals" ostensibly have more progressive thoughts on economic and political problems.

The Red army, which could have a decisive voice in the choice of new leaders, is thus itself divided.

The aging and ailing Premier Kosygin seems to have ruled himself out as supreme "vozhd" (leader) in the Kremlin. But Brezhnev is fighting hard to stay on top.

Economic difficulties and the disarray in the Red world are some of the key issues on which power struggle revolves.

Brezhnev is currently trying to convince Russians that he is doing everything possible to improve their standard of living. But despite his optimistic propaganda the country continues to be plagued by drastic shortages of consumer goods ranging from meat to housing.

An exceptionally high labor turnover is disrupting production plans in many branches of Soviet industry.

Loneliness

Editor, The Freeman:

Loneliness is the most dangerous widespread illness in American society today and it's reaching epidemic proportions.

It is the major cause of alcoholism, drug addiction and suicide as stated by the president of the New Mexico Psychoanalytic Association.

This social cancer destroys a person's will to live because he feels useless, unwanted because of a sense of isolation and introversion.

It causes despondency and such a state of mind to aggravate physical illness because when you are happy and enjoy life your resistance to disease is much greater.

Is this why people are taking to drugs to be socially accepted, such as students and their classmates?

Does this loneliness cause people to do violence and destructive things in order to attract attention for want of an outlet for pent up emotions? In order to balance society one must possess a sense of belonging and feel as a result a deep need to be and feel protected and free.

Therefore a lonely person is insecure because he feels no one cares or wants to care and I am not talking about the elderly but all age categories.

Affection is one of the keys to unlock the doors of loneliness because when you do things (constructive) for other people, you learn to love and understand and then you no longer dwell on your own problems.

There is a vast difference between loneliness and aloneness. An example would be the three Apollo astronauts on that half million mile round trip voyage to the Moon. They were cut off from the world (aloneness) but they were so involved with their scientific mission that they had no time to be lonely because they had communication among friends thousands of miles away.

This illustration shows we must communicate with people but our society is so polarized and full of hatred of all kinds that fear prevents it.

The unseen mugger, addict, rioter, undetected environmental pollution contribute to fear.

Let's have an atmosphere of togetherness and concern and conquer fear that makes our behavior so irresponsible.

Reverse these situations by returning to a faith in human values, a rededication to faith in God, and to realize that each one of us is valuable in our society and that we are born for a divine purpose because united we stand and divided we fall.

Sincerely yours,
EDWIN J. HIGBY

The Snowmobilers

Editor, The Freeman:

In regard to Carolyn Waruch's letter appearing in the January 4th Daily Freeman, I certainly agree that snowmobiles should not at all times be permitted to ride on town roads. Also there should be restrictions as to the time they are permitted to run.

However, after a new fallen snow, before the plows are out and before the roads can be traveled by car what harm can be done?

Having lived in the Town of Rochester five years ago I can see no significant change between the way the roads were plowed then and the way the roads are plowed now. What was the excuse five years ago? Certainly not snowmobiles.

I can remember riding over ruts then and I'm still doing the same thing today on roads where snowmobiles have never traveled.

After the ban on snowmobiles who will the Town have to blame for their failure to plow a decent strip of road.

Another strange thing I'd like to ask, why does a snowmobile weighing from 3 to 4 hundred pounds pack down snow making it so difficult for the plows to plow when a tractor and heavy farm equipment riding on the same unplowed roads have no effect? Could it be because the tending the town and join us. snowmobiles are for pleasure? Who knows maybe a lot of you I'm glad I live in a town where people are a little more winter sport of snowmobiling. broad minded in regard to us snowmobilers.

May I suggest you stop dewarding way of life.

J. C. Penny, 95, Lives for Today

NEW YORK—(NEA)—"Ambition, ambition." 95-year-old J. C. Penny said, rapping his desk for emphasis. "Any young man can be a success in business today if he has ambition; it's the same as it was in my day."

Penny's day began in 1902 when he opened a general store in Kemmerer, Wyo. That store, named the Golden Rule, was the start of the ultimate Horatio Alger career, which has led to creation of a 1,700-outlet, worldwide department store chain.

Now, 68 years after he opened his first store, Penny still regularly visits his office in the Penny Building in Manhattan.

He often greets youngsters touring the building, sitting in his office like a living historical monument, dapper and alert, talking to them about his beginning back in Wyoming.

But thoughts of those beginnings are more than just the sweet vapors of soothing memories for Penny. For him, as for any devout capitalist, the only thing that counts is today.

Last year's profits don't pay this year's bills and deep engrained instincts keep Penny thinking in terms of capturing customers.

"There are no 'good, old days,' except today," he insists. "A young man has more opportunities in business today to help my business and I rethan ever before, and if he is honest and has ambition, he can succeed."

James Cash Penny was eight when his father, a farmer, told him he would have to start earning money to buy his own clothes. He earned those first few pennies hauling hay, and ever since he has spoken of nostalgia but a school in earnestly about the value of hard work, honesty, the Golden Rule, determination and ambition.

"I've profited from my experience," he says vigorously, "by learning not to make the that have for him been a re-same mistake twice."

U.S. Family of Four Needs Minimum Of $126 a Week to Make Ends Meet

By GEORGE GALLUP

Copyright, 1971, American Institute of Public Opinion. All rights reserved. Reproduction in whole or part strictly prohibited, except with written consent of the copyright holders.

PRINCETON, N.J., Jan 10 — A family of four needs $126 per week to make ends meet, according to the American public's own current estimate of living costs.

This is a record amount and is $6 higher than the amount specified last year and $25 higher than the public's estimate four years ago.

The sharpest rise in the amount needed per week has come in the East, where the sum currently specified is $148, up $22 from the figure reported last year.

It costs far less for a family of four to get along each week in the South than it does elsewhere in the nation, as indicated by the responses of Southerners included in the survey. The current figure for the South is $102, an increase of only one dollar over last year.

When this index was first reported, thirty-four years ago, $30 was the (median) average amount specified nationally. By 1947, ten years later, the figure had risen to $43. Near the end of the following decade, 1957, a family of four needed $72 per week. The amount had climbed to $120 by the time of last year's survey.

For more than three decades the Gallup Poll has asked this question of a sample of the nation's population, excluding farm families:

What is the SMALLEST amount of money a family of four (husband, wife, and two children) needs each week to get along in this community?

This periodic Gallup index provides a realistic measurement of living costs since it is based on the respondent's own estimate of family expenditures. The federal government's cost of living statistics are based on retail prices and price changes.

To obtain the results reported today, personal interviews were conducted with a total of 1517 adults in more than 300 scientifically selected localities during the period December 5-6.

The following tables show the national and regional results in the latest survey as compared with results reported last January. The dollar amounts given are (median) averages of the responses given in the survey.

Minimum Amount Needed By Family of Four (Non-Farm Families)

	Jan. 1970	Latest 1970
NATIONAL	$120	$126
East	$148	$154
Midwest	$126	$120
South	$102	$101
West	$135	$126

Sharp Rise Noted In Other Nations

The rise in the cost of living has been equally sharp in other nations of the world. In West Germany, for example, the amount needed by a family of four per week has risen from $47 four years ago to $82 today—a jump of $35. Over the same period of time, the U.S. figure, based on Gallup indexes, has climbed $25.

Gallup-affiliated organizations in 7 nations recently participated in a study to determine the public's estimate of living costs in each of the following nations: Brazil, Great Britain, Greece, the Netherlands, United States, the Netherlands, United States, Uruguay and West Germany. In each nation the public was asked to estimate the minimum amount needed by a family of four to make ends meet.

The following table gives the results for each country, converted to U.S. dollars. The change over the last four years is given in those cases where a comparison is available:

	Jan. 1967	Latest 1967	Incr'se
Brazil	$77	—	—
Great Britain	$66	$58.50	12.8
Greece	$56	$51.50	8.7
Netherlands	$51	$35.50	43.7
United States	$126	$101	24.8
Uruguay	$53	—	—
West Germany	$82	$47	74.5

(NOTE: Brazil results are based on Sao Paulo only; results for Greece are based on Athens only; results for West Germany do not include West Berlin.)

Tanker-Freighter Crash Causes Channel Blast

DOVER, England (UPI)—A Peruvian freighter sliced into an empty Panamanian tanker in the English Channel early today, cutting it in two and causing it to explode with a blast that shattered windows on the shore nine miles away.

Nine of the crew of the 13,604-ton tanker Texaco Caribbean were missing and feared dead. Twenty were rescued.

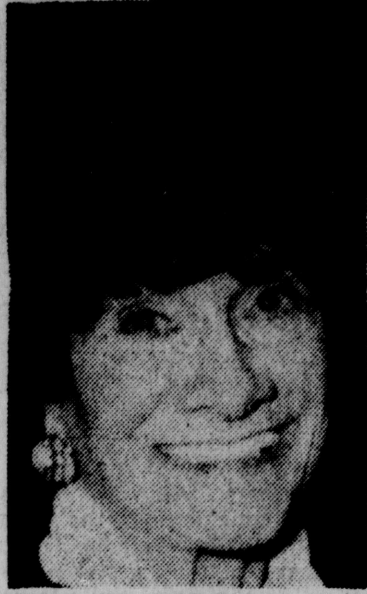

Fears the collision would produce an oil slick reminiscent of the 1967 Torrey Canyon disaster were eased when crewmen reported the Texaco Caribbean was empty.

The Peruvian vessel, the 9,481-ton Paracas, limped to a buoy near the accident site and tied up, a salvage ship at her side. The bow of the Texaco Caribbean sank almost immediately. The Coast Guard said the stern eventually would follow.

Other ships in the region, 10 miles off Dover on Britain's southeast coast, sped to the scene along with rescue boats from shore and plucked 20 of the tanker's crewmen from the water. Most were suffering from shock.

Wrapped in blankets, some of them only in nightclothes, the Texaco Caribbean crewmen were taken to hospitals suffering from an assortment of cuts, bruises and abrasions.

"None of us really know what happened," said one, an Italian.

Narcotic Charge Evolves in Case At Britts Store

KINGSTON

Caught by police after a chase from the Kingston Shopping Plaza after he allegedly stole a coat at Britt's store Saturday afternoon, 19-year-old John Avery who gave his address as the Stuyvesant Hotel, was cited for petit larceny.

Following his arrest for larceny, Avery was booked for criminal possession of a narcotic implement after authorities said they found in his possession a hypodermic syringe and a silver tea spoon that contained a small swab of cotton, authorities contend had been used for administering drugs.

According to police Avery was arrested by a security officer at the store charged with petit larceny involving the alleged theft of a woman's leather coat valued at $69. The youth reportedly fled through the parking lot at the uptown shopping plaza and was apprehended by Patrolmen Richard Ramsell and Lawrence Lohman at John and Wall Streets.

Avery was held for an appearance in city court on both charges.

Too often in these inflationary times there's nothing left over from our paychecks to do those "fun" things we used to like to do . . . a trip to the Flower Show in the City . . . dining out in an expensive restaurant . . . the theatre.

Chances are, you can arrange to receive an extra check in the mail each month . . . and treat yourself. You deserve it.

With a savings certificate at Hudson Valley Federal Savings and Loan Association you can receive a check every month for your interest. For instance, $2,000 deposited in a 2-year certificate will bring you a $10 check each month; $5,000 gets you a $25 monthly check. Best of all, your original savings amount remains untouched, its safety insured up to $20,000 by an agency of the U.S. Government.

If you prefer, you can have your interest checks mailed to you quarterly, or let us add the interest to your savings to earn more interest (compounded quarterly). Ask for details.

Oaths of Office

State Senator Jay P. Rolison Jr. (R-Dutchess-Ulster) takes the oath of office for the third time from Lt. Gov. Malcolm Wilson (L) president of the State Senate. Over in the Assembly, H. Clark Bell, Ulster County assemblyman, takes the oath for his second term from Secretary of State John P. Lomenzo. Joining Bell in the ceremonies are his wife, Joy, their two children K.O. and Bridget and Perry B. Duryea Jr., Assembly speaker. Duryea recently appointed Bell to the Ways and Means Committee, the committee that considers all money bills before the Assembly. Bell is also a member of the Reapportionment Committee which will redistrict all Senate, Assembly and congressional districts later this year.

Open competitive examinations for a fire dispatcher for the Fire Coordinator's Department and a dispatcher for the Village of Ellenville will be held Feb. 27, according to announcement of the Ulster County Civil Service Commission Executive Director Frank D. Greco.

The last date for filing applications is Jan. 27. They may be secured from the Commission at UPO Box 172, County Office Building, Kingston.

City Sets Exam For More Police

An open competitive entrance level police examination to fill six vacancies in the Kingston Police Department will be held Feb. 27, according to the Kingston Civil Service Commission.

Applications must be filed with the Civil Service Commission on or before Jan. 28 at 4 p.m. Offices are located at City Hall, 408 Broadway.

The written examination will be designed to test for a person's ability to understand and interpret provisions of the New York State Penal Law, the Code of Criminal Procedure and the Vehicle and Traffic Law. Ability to exercise good judgment in the police field and ability to prepare written reports will also be tested.

Minimum qualifications for the vacant posts include legal residence in the Counties of Ulster, Green, Dutchess, Orange, Sullivan, Delaware or Columbia for at least four months immediately preceding the examination date and graduation from a standard senior high school or possession of a high school equivalency diploma.

Complete details regarding test materials and qualifications can be obtained at the Civil Service Commission office.

Meeting Change

The regular meeting of the Highland School Board of Education has been advanced from Tuesday, Jan. 12 to tonight at the Highland Central School board offices. Meeting time is 7 p.m.

Ellenville Seeks Dispatchers

The starting salary for the fire dispatcher is $4,625 and one any equivalent combination of training and experience sufficient to indicate ability to do the work.

A special requirement is eligibility for a restricted radio operator's permit issued by the Federal Communications Commission.

A written test will be given a high school or its equivalent to test knowledge and skills in the operation of a two-way radio, including radio procedures and terminology.

A written test will be given to test knowledge and skills in the operation of a two-way radio. The dispatcher candidate must be a resident of Ellenville for four months, be a graduate of high school and have clerical aptitude.

Tavern Owner Shot to Death

TOWN OF PAWLING — Dutchess County police authorities are investigating the apparent murder of a 49-year-old Pawling tavern owner who was found shot to death this morning in the bar area of his Route 22 establishment.

Dover Plains State Police said that Emile Zaniboni of River Road, Pawling was shot and killed by a small caliber weapon sometime late Sunday night or early this morning. Police are offering robbery as the motive for the slaying. The amount of cash taken was not determined.

Zaniboni, owner and operator of the Cattle Bar Restaurant in the Town of Pawling between the communities of Pawling and Wingdale, was discovered this morning by a member of his family after he failed to return home from work Sunday night, said police. He reportedly had been dead for several hours. An autopsy will be performed.

State Police officials said they are investigating numerous leads in the murder.

The investigation is being headed by Major P. G. Emden, Troop K commander and Captain J. F. Leary, along with BCI and uniformed forces of the Dover Plains State Police barracks.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (UPI)—The stock market opened higher on moderate turnover today. Reports that the Nixon administration is ready to reduce business taxes in an effort to revitalize the economy were expected to generate additional demand for stocks, although many analysts note the "market is overbought and due for some consolidation soon."

Quotations by Hornblower and Weeks, Hemphill, Noyes, members of the New York Stock Exchange, Kingston representatives, Paul Coon and Theodore Peck, 15 Market Street, Poughkeepsie, phone 451-5011.

4 Face Larceny In Theft Probe At Highland

HIGHLAND — Four persons were apprehended by Newburgh Police late Saturday on petit larceny charges in connection with an investigation of the reported theft of $51 from a Highland Service Station.

State Police said Greg Moore, an employee at Rizzo's Service Station on Route 9W complained that a motorist accompanied by three other persons stopped at the station for service and after they left he discovered the money missing.

Police in the Orange County city were notified and on information from troopers here, authorities took the four in custody. They were identified as Raymond Bowen, 23, Samuel Vanderpool, 35, Michael Hackett, 16 all of Jamaica, and Karen Boston, 19, of Brooklyn.

Arraigned before New Paltz Town Justice Rexford Schneider, the four defendants pleaded innocent. Bail for each was set at $500 and the case was adjourned until Jan. 15. The arrests were made by Troopers F. J. Krasinski, G. J. Hazlett, B. D. Mitchell and H. M. McKeigan of Highland.

Burglary Try At Freeman Site

KINGSTON — Detectives today investigated reports of attempted burglary at a warehouse on Jansen Avenue used for storage by The Freeman, according to police.

Investigation disclosed that a lock, hasp and screws were removed from a door, but apparently nothing was taken and no damage was done. Police said after entering the building the intruders made an unsuccessful attempt to pry a door leading to an area used as a warehouse by Standard Furniture.

LAKE KATRINE

All voters of the Town of Ulster who registered for the last general election are eligible to cast ballots Tuesday, Jan. 12 on the proposed construction and financing of the $342,750 town office building.

According to information available in a brochure on the subject, the proposition, if approved by the referendum, will add about $3 per $1,000 of assessed valuation to the town tax rate.

Balloting by voting machines will be from 1 to 8 p.m. at the following polling places:

Districts 1, 6 and 13, Spring Lake Firehouse.

District 4, Marasek's store, Eddyville.

Districts 2, 5, 8, 9, 10 and 11, Chambers School.

Districts 3 and 12, East Kingston Firehouse.

District 7, Ruby Rod and Gun Clubhouse.

The resident voters may cast ballots for or against the proposition, a resolution by the Town Board authorizing the construction and purchase of equipment for a town office building on town-owned property at a maximum estimated cost of $350,000. This includes the issuance of $332,500 in serial bonds; $8,376 in capital notes with the balance in the amount of $9,123.97 having heretofore been provided from available current funds.

The proposed site is a four-acre tract, owned by the town, facing Route 209 in the immediate vicinity of IBM and Clifford Miller Junior High School. There will be 6,920 square feet of space on the upper level and 5,130 square feet on the lower level. The building will be of concrete block with brick and stone facing. Heating will be provided by oil-fired hot water and the entire building will be air conditioned.

The town building will provide space for all existing town offices and storage for records of all offices, voting machines and other items used in the operation of town government. Future expansion may be accommodated in the lower level. The 40 by 50 feet meeting room seating 200 will also serve as a court room.

Construction and site development is estimated to cost $303,750; architect, engineering and legal fees, $19,000; furniture and equipment $20,000.

There will be room for parking of 90 cars.

The building along the front will be 109.4 feet and extends back 53 feet. The 40 by 50 feet meeting room will jut out of the rear center by 26.4 feet.

The Building Committee headed by Mrs. Bette Maxson and including John Mulvin, John Smith, John Sullivan and Roy Reid gave the following reasons why the voters should approve the project:

It would help preserve and promote the good economy which the town's residences and businesses now enjoy. The town is the second largest in the county in value. The town is also second largest in population.

The Town of Ulster has some of the most desirable residential, business and commercial areas in the Mid-Hudson Valley.

Also, the town has a balanced economy which taxwise is favorable to both the owners of residences and the owners of businesses. The town cannot efficiently operate its town government and justice courts from its rented quarters which are cramped, antiquated and inadequate.

They urge a yes vote to preserve the economy of the township.

DECIDE ON A DATE — Columnist Betty Bedle of the Washington Star reported Sunday that Tricia Nixon and Edward F. Cox (shown at the International Debutante Ball December 29) have decided on a wedding date of Monday, June 14. So far, there has been no official announcement that the young couple is engaged. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

The 18 Signing Picks Up Locally Following a Slow Beginning

After a noticeably slow start in registration of 18 to 20-year olds in Ulster County (only eight the first day), business began picking up at the Board of Elections last week with more than 100 young men and women registering to vote in New York's next federal election.

Deputy Election Commissioner Valerie L. Q. Sheeley stressed that those eligible to register now must be 18 or more years of age by Election Day, Nov. 2, 1971 even though the federal election will not occur until 1972.

Among reasons cited for the low turnout the first day of registration, Jan. 4, were holiday vacations, ice weather and lack of publicity.

Mrs. Sheeley said that after the first day and subsequent publicity concerning the low turnout, young people began flocking to the Election Office each afternoon after school.

The Jan. 4 registration granted eligibility only for federal elections. The U.S. Supreme Court, in upholding the 18-year-old vote, left it to state and local governments to decide whether 18-year olds can vote at lower level elections.

The State Legislature has moved to grant an extended vote by passing the necessary constitutional amendment in one session. It must be approved in a second session and a public referendum before it can become law.

If all 18-20-year olds in the state register, they will number about one-seventh of the electorate who cast ballots in the 1968 presidential race.

The Board of Election Office in Ulster County is on the sixth floor of the County Office Building at the corner of Main and Fair Streets.

Linking Upstate-New England

367-Mile Maritime Super Road Planned

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — A 367-mile superhighway linking northern New England and upstate New York is being proposed as a scenic attraction and a stimulus to the area's lagging economy.

Backing the so-called Maritime Highway are businessmen and industrial development experts from the four-state area, including retired Marine Brig. Gen. Hamilton South, an Albany bank official and a member of the New York East-West Highway Committee.

The proposed road would connect Amsterdam, in New York's Mohawk Valley, with Calais, on the Maine side of the Canadian-U.S. border. It would be built with monies from the federal Highway Trust Fund, says South, the fund that finances the interstate highway program.

Spurs would connect a highway in the interior with ports on the Maine coast, as well as other points. The Highway Trust Fund, set to expire in 1972, was recently extended to 1977. It provides 90 per cent federal funding for certain highway projects.

If built in line with its backers' proposals, South says, the east-west link would "help destroy the environment" along its route. In fact, he asserts the highway should be built so that it "would be known for its scenery," like the Cotton Trail or the Appalachian Highway. The road, when connected to the Appalachian Highway, would provide a link from Maine to the gulf coast, he says.

It would "mean the economic development of the dormant northeastern region" and would "help employment" claims South, who says road-building programs are traditional tools in dealing with economic slumps.

South contends that one way or another there will be overland links along the path of the proposed Maritime Trail in the future and that by going ahead with an interstate highway now, state and federal governments can avoid the "clutter" of unplanned development along the right-of-way as well as ensure that there are "no violations of the ecology."

The highway proposal is "of great interest to Canada's Maritime Provinces," says South, who adds that a huge oil storage facility has been built in the New Brunswick port of Saint John.

Bulk oil from this facility, capable of handling the new supertankers, could be trucked to the fuel-starved Northeast, according to South. He points out that Calais is only a few miles from Machiasport, Me. where New England officials have tried without success to establish a sort of "free port" where cheaper foreign oil could be brought into the area.

The road, described by South as a "development" highway, has the support of the governors of New York, Vermont,

New Hampshire, and Maine. Businessmen and industrial development consultants from all four states were encouraged, says South, after an hour-long Washington meeting last month at which they urged support of the plan of Secretary of Transportation John Volpe, himself a former New England governor.

The idea of the northern New England-upstate New York link is not new, admits South. But, he says, the case for building it soon has never been stronger.

McGovern, Hughes, Bayh

Dem Hopefuls Wrote Convention Rules

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Democrats have three potential presidential candidates who were members of the commission that wrote the rules for choosing delegates to the 1972 national convention.

The three are Sens. George S. McGovern of South Dakota, Harold E. Hughes of Iowa and Birch Bayh of Indiana.

McGovern has resigned as chairman of the commission and will leave the commission completely next month. Bayh and Hughes are horses of a darker hue, and all three are rated far behind Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine in the race for the Democratic nomination.

In an effort to close the gap, McGovern is planning to make his formal announcement of candidacy this month. His announcement is coming 10 to 12 months earlier than is suggested by normal timetables.

A Late Starter
As a late starter who inherited some of the support of Robert F. Kennedy, McGovern finished a weak third in 1968 on the first ballot nomination of Hubert H. Humphrey. The riotous conduct at that convention led to the creation of two reform commissions—one on convention procedure and the other on delegate selection.

McGovern's commission circulated to state party officials last winter 18 guidelines for the selection of delegates. He said his intention was to keep the 1972 convention from appearing like a boss-controlled assembly of power brokers.

It is sometimes said that a friendly politician with influence is a party leader and that an unfriendly one is a boss. Whether they be statesmen or bosses, these party figures presume they are better qualified than inexperienced and independent delegates to decide what presidential candidate has the best chance of winning and of helping them win with their state tickets.

The commission's guidelines failed to produce what seemed to be a predictable protest against the proposed changes.

One Proposal
One proposal called for local and statewide procedures for a presidential candidate in leading to the selection of national convention delegates. Thus a candidate backed by "in reasonable" only 20 per cent of the population of the state, Democrats in a state should get 20 per cent of the convention commission found that only 13 votes from that state. Where the selection of delegates is governed by state law, state party organization, only 5 per cent were required to make "all feasible efforts" to get the law amended to comply with the representing minority support guidelines.

"Dear friends of Ulster Savings,"

For 120 years Ulster Savings has performed a vital function in this area, serving and growing with the County and its environs.

December 31, 1970 marks the end of a decade for US — a decade in which our assets more than doubled — from $32,768, 555 in 1959 to the present $71,881,600. I hope that you are as pleased with this record as we, at US, are.

It is of particular interest to note that despite the adverse conditions under which savings banks had to operate in 1970, Ulster Savings showed a healthy gain for the year of almost $5,000,000. This gain was made in the face of inflationary trends and almost runaway rates, and reflects great credit on the efforts of the employees, and your Board of Trustees. It is also a measure of the support which you, our depositors and customers have given US. Be assured that we shall strive to continue to merit that support in the decade ahead — a decade which I am confident, will continue the healthy growth of "Ulster Savings."

Environment on Tap

WOODSTOCK Air pollution may well be the cause of a high golf score, or a house for sale is still on the market, or the leaves of a favorite tree are a different color this year. Learn about environmental pollution at the January meeting of the Woodstock League of Women Voters, Wednesday, 8 p.m. at Deanes, Woodstock.

The topic for the evening is Environmental Quality Consensus. After a program involving implications and problems of air pollution a discussion will follow. Consensus will then be sought.

Mrs. Peggy Cole, chairman of the Environmental Quality Workshop of the Woodstock League of Women Voters has announced that some of the points which will be considered are:

To control air pollution what powers should the government have? How should these powers be divided among the local, state and federal government? What kinds of control will you support to reduce air pollution? How should the various kinds of cost connected with control of air pollution be paid for? What safeguards should be provided to insure genuine opportunity for public participation in decisions on air quality standards?

Mrs. Cole and her committee include Mrs. Donald Jennings, Mrs. Chris Evers, Mrs. Arling Kalleberg, Mrs. Pat Moran, Mrs. John Shallenberger, Betty Weiss and Mrs. Roy Irving. The public is cordially invited.

Eileen Donnelly Is Bride-Elect

EILEEN C. DONNELLY

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Frija of East Kerley Corners Road, Red Hook, announce the engagement of her daughter, Eileen Catherine Donnelly, to Barry Weng, son of Kai Weng of Taipei, Formosa and the late Tzing Ize Bee-Weng.

Miss Donnelly was graduated from Red Hook High School in 1970 and is now attending the State School of Nursing at Middletown.

Mr. Weng received his Bachelor of Arts degree from Ithaca College and his Masters degree in Library Science from New York State University at Genesee. He is employed by the State of New York at Middletown State Hospital as a medical librarian. No date has been set for the wedding.

Summer Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. C. Kenneth Taber, Willow Tree Road, Milton, announce the engagement of their daughter, Phyllis Susan, to Angelo E. Finateri, son of Mr. and Mrs. Angelo J. Finateri, 7 School Street, Johnstown.

Miss Taber was graduated from Marlboro Central High School and received a Bachelor of Science degree in Education from the State University College at Oneonta in 1970. She is teaching second grade at the Marlboro Elementary School, Marlboro.

Mr. Finateri was graduated from Johnstown High School and attended Fulton-Montgomery Community College. In 1968, he received a Bachelor of Science degree in Chemistry from the State University College at Oneonta. Upon graduation he worked as a graduate assistant in Physical Chemistry at the State University College at Oneonta. He is teaching chemistry at Monticello High School, Monticello.

A summer wedding is planned.

SOCIAL ACTIVITIES

Carollo-Figueroa Wedding Announced

St. Catherine Labouré Church, Lake Katrine, was the setting of the wedding of Miss Maria Teresa Carollo and James Peter Figueroa on Saturday, Dec. 26 at 11 a.m. The Rev. Paul V. Sullivan and Rt. Rev. Msgr. James J. McNally officiated at the double ring ceremony. James Sweeney, organist, played selections from Bach. The church was decorated with poinsettias and holly.

Miss Carollo is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albino Carollo of Route 1, Box 381-B, Kingston, and her husband is the stepson and son, respectively, of Mr. and Mrs. Rudy Jurdack of 153 76th Street, Brooklyn.

The bride was escorted to the altar by her father. She wore an A-line gown, made in Italy, of embossed velvet with marabou trim and a chapel train. The headpiece of marabou feathers held her full veil. She carried a bouquet of red poinsettias and fresh holly.

Miss Paola Carollo of Route 1, Box 381-B, Kingston, was

MRS. JAMES PETER FIGUEROA
(Lakeside Studio)

maid of honor for her sister of olive green. The empire in a full length velvet gown waist of the gown was trimmed with gold. She carried a bouquet of fresh holly.

The Misses Anna Carollo, sister of the bride, Kingston; Paris Kern, Kingston; and Lynn Cody, Yonkers, were attendants. Their gowns and bouquets were the same as the honor attendant's.

Michael Jurdack, 153 76th Street, Brooklyn, stepbrother of the bridegroom, was best man.

A reception for 50 guests was held at the Deputy Canal Tavern, High Falls.

For her wedding journey to Rome, Italy, the bride wore a dark brown pants suit with a corsage of red roses.

Mrs. Figueroa is a graduate of the College of Mount St. Vincent, Riverdale. She spent her junior year abroad at the Institut Catholique de Paris, France. Her husband received his Bachelor of Science degree in Chemistry from Fordham University. He is presently studying for his Masters degree at the University of Rome, School of Medicine, in Italy.

The couple will make their home in Rome, Italy.

Alice Valentine Named to Who's Who

ALICE C. VALENTINE

Miss Alice C. Valentine, a senior at the Crouse School of Music at Syracuse University, has recently been elected to "Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges."

This honor is conferred annually upon outstanding student leaders from approximately 1,000 colleges and universities in the United States. In selecting candidates, campus nominating committees are instructed to choose those students whose academic standing, service to the community, leadership in extracurricular activities, and future potential are decidedly above average.

Miss Valentine's credits are varied and extensive. She is a member of Sigma Alpha Iota, professional music fraternity in which she has been chaplain for her junior and senior year; she is the recipient of the Mary Chapin Scholarship in 1969-70 and the Garrigues Foundation of Philadelphia Scholarship in 1970-71. Performance Honors were awarded to her in Piano from 1969-1971. She is a member of Sigma Kappa Sorority and was given their Friendship Award for 1969-70. As a contestant, sponsored by her sorority, in the Miss Greater Syracuse Pageant in 1970 she was awarded the Miss Congeniality trophy.

Miss Valentine has been the accompanist for the Syracuse University Workshop in 1969-70 as well as accompanist for six vocalists giving a recital with each one. She gave a Junior Recital in Piano and a Senior Recital in Piano. At present, she has a teaching assistantship in piano at the Crouse School of Music and is a member of the New York State School Music Association. She has been on the Dean's List from 1968 thru 1970. In December, 1970 she attended the Music Educators National Conference at the Concord Hotel.

Miss Valentine is a 1966 graduate of Kingston High School. She is also a graduate of Ulster County Community College in 1968 where she received the Ulster College Community College Faculty Wives Scholarship in June, 1968.

Prior to entering Syracuse University she studied piano with Edgar Roberts.

Miss Valentine is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John M. Valentine of Zandhoeck Road in Hurley.

Helpful Hints for the Busy Housewife

By HELOISE

DEAR HELOISE:
I've found this hint so useful, I just had to share it with you and your many readers. It was one of those exasperating occasions when, after the package was wrapped, I found that none of my ribbons matched or even went with the paper. So, out of desperation, I made a ribbon from the paper and found it worked better than I had hoped for.

I laid a strip of tape down carefully on the back of the wrapping paper, avoiding wrinkles and air pockets. Then cut out the paper in strips, making it slightly smaller than the width of the tape. This gave me a long piece of "ribbon" which I found could be curled on the edge of the scissors like regular curling ribbon.

It made a perfect cluster for the top of the package.

Sharon Ireton

Now, that's what I call instant magic. But it just goes to show, there is a solution for every problem.

..... Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:

In my bucket of cleaning water and sponge for little smudges and clean-up jobs, I add a bit of fabric softener. It gives the room a lovely clean smell, plus it's so gentle on the hands.

Mrs. F. Rubano

Dear Heloise:

Here's a hint for those who do a lot of baking.

Keep a bowl of water next to your dough, and instead of dipping your cookie cutter in flour, use the water. Your dough will drop right out of the cutter with no flour mess. It works every time.

Firm-Fleshed Pollock Makes Great Chowder

NEW ENGLAND FISH CHOWDER

POLLOCK NEW ENGLAND BROILED

The ocean is filled with tasty, firm-fleshed fish that many people never heard of. The reason they never hear of them is that the fishermen rarely bring them in, and when they do it is only incidental to their primary catch.

The fisherman fishes for the market. He sets his nets at a depth that will catch fish that he knows have ready buyers. Meanwhile, succulent fish of another species which feed at a different level or locate in a different area are swimming blissfully out of reach of the fisherman's nets.

One such species . . . the pollock . . . is finally coming into its own. Long a popular table fish for the discriminating fisherman, the pollock's sudden popularity has been triggered by the scarcity of its first cousin, the haddock, which has been subjected to overfishing by foreign fleets during recent years.

With the gradual decline of the bottom feeding haddock, fishermen are now re-rigging their vessels to fish for the plentiful mid-water pollock, and many seafood lovers are getting their first taste of this excellent fish.

Popularly known as Boston Blue, the pollock has a blander, less pronounced fish taste than cod or haddock. The meat is off-white in its raw form but cooks up pure white. It flakes in good thicknesses. There are many who claim it far surpasses any other fish in a New England fish chowder.

Here's an authentic fisherman's recipe for a hearty fish chowder and other recipes that show what can be done with pollock fillets and steaks. Don't overcook! Pollock, like any fish, will lose its natural delicate flavor if overdone.

New England Fish Chowder

3 lbs. fresh pollock fillets
1/4 lb. salt pork
3 large yellow onions, sliced thin
4 cups thinly sliced raw potatoes
4 cups boiling water
4 cups milk
Salt and pepper to taste
Common crackers or pilot crackers

Cut fillets in 2-inch pieces. Dice salt pork; fry slowly in heavy kettle or Dutch oven until golden brown and crisp. Remove pork; save. Cook onions in pork fat in kettle until soft but not brown. Add potatoes and boiling water. Cook until potatoes are almost tender. Add fish; cook about 15 minutes longer, or until fish flakes easily with a fork. (At this point chowder may be refrigerated overnight if desired — flavor is enhanced by the next day.) Add milk; season to taste with salt and pepper; heat to serving temperature but do not allow to boil. Garnish with cooked, diced salt pork. Float split common crackers on each serving or crumble pilot crackers on top. Makes 8 servings.

Pollock Jardiniere

4 pollock steaks
Salt and pepper
1/4 cup minced onion
1 small cucumber, scored and sliced (do not peel)
Fresh dill
2/3 cup boiling water
1 envelope vegetable broth mix
1/2 cup dry, white wine

Arrange pollock steaks in baking dish. Sprinkle lightly with salt and pepper. Scatter onion over surface. Cover with cucumber slices and sprays of fresh dill. Combine boiling water and vegetable broth mix; stir in wine. Pour into baking dish. Bake at 350 degrees until fish flakes readily with fork, approximately 18 to 20 minutes. Makes 4 portions.

Broiled Pollock Steaks

Have the steaks cut 1 to 1 1/4 inches thick. Brush generously with soft butter or margarine. Place in a flat pan lined with aluminum foil. Place in broiler with surface of fish about three inches below heat. Broil five minutes; turn carefully. Broil six or seven minutes longer or until golden brown (the fish should flake easily with a fork and should have lost its "transparent" look). Remove from broiler. Season to taste with salt and pepper. Serve with Festival Sauce.

Festival Sauce

1 cup mayonnaise
2 tablespoons grated onion
1/4 cup chili sauce
2 tablespoons snipped parsley
Dash Tabasco
1 tablespoon minced pimiento
1/2 cup dairy sour cream

Combine all ingredients except sour cream. Chill several hours. Just before serving fold in sour cream. Makes about two cups.

These recipes were developed and tested by home economist, Demetria Taylor.

Tiny Tips

'Pattern' Appliances

Goodbye to humdrum looking housewares and appliances. A new process has made it possible to coat aluminum with prints and patterns so that even a humble fry pan can be a thing of beauty.

Soon to come on the market are kitchen appliances printed with leopard spots and zebra stripes; tortoise-patterned and pony-skin cookers; possibly a dutch oven which borrows the plumage of a parrot. The new appliances are as practical as they are pretty. The aluminum alloys which make the designs possible need only frequent washing with soap or detergent to keep them clean and shiny. . . .

Bathroom Spacesaver

Here's a handy bathroom spacesaver. Stack up a column of storage with a pair of slim modular units. The lower piece holds bowl brush, cleaning supplies and an extra roll of paper. The stack-on top is a mini-wastebasket capped with a tissue dispenser. Made of plastic, the sections are all wipe-cleanable with a sudsy sponge. . . .

STOCKING SLIPPERS

Fun faces make the toes of washable stocking slippers for children. Choose from several colors and faces, such as perky clowns. By wiggling their toes, youngsters can create their own puppet shows.

Wedding Told

Miss Marcia Anne Howland, Woodstock, became the bride of Ralph A. Childers, Saugerties, on Dec. 19 in Gethsemane Cathedral, Fargo, N. D. Miss Howland is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald R. Howland, Fargo, N. D.

The bride's sister, Mrs. Peter M. Becraft, and brother, Bruce Howland, served as honor attendants.

Mrs. Childers is a graduate of University of North Dakota and is employed by IBM. Her husband is an alumnus of Siena College, Albany, and is also employed by IBM. The couple will make their home in Saugerties.

Home-Fashions-Features

NEW LIFE comes to party room or family recreation area with 1x6-inch board paneling, painted in bright colors of alternate shades before installing. Color scheme and board pattern are repeated when enclosing cabinets, drawers and sink for party service or crafts.

Stripes Pep Up Party Room

Play area for moppets, crafts center, guest room, office-den, or party room—all these and more are roles of a family room.

The leisure center of your house must be tailored to your family's needs and wishes, so don't imitate layouts you find in publications if they don't fit. Gather ideas that apply and put together your own room.

The family room is much undervalued if it's furnished with castoffs, dominated by a television set. Today this room packs in more living than a wigwam, up to 16 hours a day, and if adjacent to the kitchen may be the scene of two, or all three of the day's meals.

Realizing this, many homeowners are putting more planning into decorating multipurpose leisure rooms.

One family wanted a lively room so they used brightly painted 1x6-inch Douglas fir V-groove paneling in alternate shades on all walls. The younger set might choose red, white and blue, or a more psychedelic combination.

Paneling was painted before installation, eliminating masking while leaving sharper, neater lines.

The same boards and color patterns were used to enclose a sink and built-in drawers and cupboards for party service and crafts use.

Anti-Static Lingerie

A nylon yarn with anti-static and anti-soil properties offers ladies liberation from clinging lingerie and sleepwear. Even after many washings, garments made of Celanese Type 19 nylon show no static electricity which causes clinging. They also maintain whiteness through repeated laundering. The new nylon bears the trademark Stataway.

Lively, colorful treatments are especially important in basement rooms. Light-toned board paneling such as western hemlock, Idaho white pine and white fir on walls opens up rooms visually and seems to add height when applied to ceilings. Board paneling also helpfully insulates sounds of exuberant games and parties.

Leisure room furnishings should be sturdy, easy to move and selected for multiple use. Built-in storage, such as a wall of shelves for books, television, hi-fi, and project supplies, is recommended.

Of course, a family room which is the scene of so much activity must be easy and quick to care for.

Hardwood floors with roll-up area rugs or matting allow quick changes of activities and are easy to maintain.

Indoor-outdoor carpeting also is gaining popularity for family rooms, especially where traffic includes youngsters too busy to clean off their shoes.

One new idea in family rooms: a sauna bath with adjacent relaxing and dressing room.

Latest Variation In Nurse Uniform

By ANN HENCKEN
AP Fashion Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Dr. Rex Morgan would keel over in a dead faint if he could see nurse June Gale's latest uniform—and its variations.

As quick as you can say acetylsalicylic acid, a nurse can change her new pants-suit uniform into an ensemble fit for off-duty fun. She just adds a feather blouse to her white nurse's slacks, or she can wear her tunic over multi-striped short shorts.

The trend to pants for hospital nurses started last year and caught on at hospitals across the country.

However, now that nurses are winning the fight for pants suits in many places, designers are saying long pants are becoming a part of the past. Short shorts, yes. Knickers, yes. Long pants, yawn.

Nurses' costumes from 1865 were shown during an all-white uniforms presentation recently at the New York Couture National Press Week—just as an interesting contrast. But with their long skirts and white aprons, these old uniforms looked more like 1971, for better or for worse. Who can keep up with it all?

Area Groups List Activities

Crafts Program

The Women's Club of YWCA will hold its regular meeting Thursday, Jan. 14 at 2:15 p.m. at YWCA, 209 Clinton Avenue, Kingston. The program will be "Crafts and Arts."

In September, the group discussed "Needlework Explosion." This month other methods of arts and creativity for leisure time will be discussed. Mrs. Dewese DeWitt and Mrs. John B. Sterley will display and explain the "Fun of Tole Stenciling." Tole is a type of lacquered or enameled metalware popular in the 18th century and reproduced today in the form of trays, lamps, and other items. Both women previously had taken a course at YWCA and have continued the art.

Mrs. Harold Davis will display and explain various textile designs and techniques including Batiking, stenciling and free hand. Batiking is a method of dyeing designs on cloth. It originated in the Netherlands Indies and was introduced by the Dutch into Europe.

This program promises to be enjoyable for ladies who are looking for new leisure hour direction. Guests are welcome.

To Meet Thursday

The Northern Dutchess Democratic Women's Club will meet Thursday, Jan. 14 in St. Christopher's Church basement in Red Hook at 7:30 p.m. There will be a short business meeting to elect a vice president and to discuss possible club activities for 1971.

Mrs. Marshall Effron, president of Dutchess County Women's Democratic Club, will be guest speaker.

All members are urged to attend and anyone interested in joining the Club will be welcome.

Kingston High Cager Faces Suspension

By MORT LAFFIN

KINGSTON — Herman Simon, freshman basketball star for Kingston High School, faces disciplinary action and a possible suspension from the team by Coach Mike Rienzo. Simon, a transfer student at Myron J. Michael Junior High School, had not reported back to school after the holiday vacation.

"I had allowed Herman to go home (New York City) for the holidays," said Rienzo. "And, I told him that he didn't have to report back for the John Jay game we played during the vacation. Herman, however, didn't come back to school Monday. As a result, he missed our Tuesday game at Poughkeepsie and Friday night's contest with John A. Coleman."

"I don't know at this time if his absence from school this week was a legal one. It will be up to school officials to determine that," Rienzo continued. "He was a spectator at the Coleman game, but I didn't talk to him. He should have contacted me during his absence. If he is accepted back, he will face disciplinary action from me in the form of a suspension from the team. I have not yet decided if that suspension period will be for the duration of the season. That remains to be seen."

Rienzo went on: "Even if he was sick, there is a question of team and school loyalty here. He knew we had games and he should have been in touch. We are not limiting our interest in any of our boys to what they can accomplish for us in athletics. We are involved in teaching something besides basketball, and loyalty to team, school and friends is part of the athletic learning process."

"I might add that we will be glad to have Herman back, if he is accepted in the school. He is a fine ball player. There are more important values involved here, though. And he has to learn them if he is going to be a member of this team," concluded the Maroon mentor.

The story of Herman's arrival on the Kingston scene is an interesting one, to say the least. And, it involves Ulster County Community College Basketball Coach and Athletic Director Mike Perry.

Perry was in Harlem this summer, watching the famous Rucker's Tournament and was impressed by Herman's play. I approached him after one of the games and asked him if he was going to college. Herman stated that he was still a high school student, but didn't know if he was going to go to school this year or not," said Perry.

I gave him my card and told him if there was anything I could do for him in any respect, collegiate, high school, or otherwise, to please feel free to contact me. Herman contacted me later and asked me if I could help him get in high school somewhere. I told him that I would see what I could do," stated the UCCS coach.

Perry found out that Herman could supposedly qualify as a welfare case and he was declared a foster child and placed in a foster home. He could now be a legal resident of the community and, under state law, the Kingston School system was obligated to afford him an education. And, he, in turn, is obligated to attend school.

Herman entered classes in September at MJM and tried out for the basketball team. He showed great potential and made the squad.

As the season progressed, Herman began to make a name for himself and was elevated to the role of starter. The 5-9 hoopster became the team leader in scoring with about a 16-point pergame-average and was also the leader in playmaking.

While all was going well for Herman on the court, his problems outside the gym increased. He found out, or was told by an as yet undisclosed source, that the money he was promised from welfare was not or supposedly had not been received by his foster family and that a bill had been sent to his mother in New York for his upkeep.

For personal reasons, he left his first family and went to reside with a friend, again as a foster child. According to Herman, no money had been received again. And, when he went back to New York to visit his mother, he decided to stay there. He was also taken ill at that time. But, he didn't inform anyone as to his situation or his illness.

"I didn't want to be that kind of a burden to anybody," said Herman in a meeting with Perry and this reporter after the Coleman game. "And, I knew that my mother couldn't afford to pay my way up here. So, I decided that I couldn't come back unless things were made right for everybody."

"But, I do want to go to school. I want to go to college. I have made a few very good friends here, mostly teammates and I want to stay. But, not at somebody's personal expense. Even if they would take me under those conditions. Sure, I want to play ball. But, if I have to be suspended, I'll take that too. I know I should have contacted somebody. But, I just didn't know who. I want to be a member of the community. But, I don't want to be anybody's burden, he concluded.

Herman supposedly returned to school today.

Perry Will Seek to Ban Referee Schell

By IRA FUSFELD

KINGSTON — Referee Chuck Schell hasn't least keeping him from being gotten Mike Perry off his back scheduled to work Ulster games again.

The Senator coach, who may have set a record for the fastest three technical fouls and automatic ejection ever in his team's 80-66 loss to Farmingdale Saturday, is writing to the National Junior College Athletic Association complaining about the competency of the referee assignments are being handled by the national office in Kansas with designations being based on availability.

Perry's letter will, at the least, protest any further appearances by Schell when Ulster plays. Another Mid-Hudson Conference coach, who was present at the game, said he, too, would write to the NJCAA backing up Perry's argument.

The big rhabarb occurred with 8:20 gone by in the first half and the unusual thing about it was that the call actually went in Perry's favor.

A UCCS guard was bringing the ball upcourt when he was blocked. Perry jumped up to scream at Schell whom he thought had missed the play, but Chuck didn't. First, he whistled the foul then the T on the coach.

Perry was calm about it. "You Schell was running to the scorer's table," he muttered. "Technical foul, technical foul, he gave me the choke," Perry now seated across the way sent messengers over with on throat signal Perry supposed to throw in the official's direction.

The ejection didn't make much difference in the outcome of the game. Ed Decker, a physical education teacher at Ulster, took over on the bench (regular assistant Gary Smith had another commitment) but captain Glenn for U-Tri-C scoring 17 points ran the huddles and on some hard nosed hustling Perry, now seated across the way sent messengers over with on throat signal Perry supposed to throw in the official's direction.

At first Perry's departure seemed to fire up the Senators, who were down 20-13 and went on to reel off eight straight points. However, UCCS was flat the rest of the time and went down to its second straight loss, fourth in the last six games.

Only Cliff Weeks was sharp

last week.

Charlie Duncan and Pat Smith headed Farmingdale, now 12-2. Duncan, a thin kid with a soft touch, pounded in 17 in the first half and 22 in all. Smith hit 20.

Ulster is 8-6 with the New Paltz frosh coming to the Field House Wednesday at 8 p.m. Chuck Schell won't be there.

Berry wasn't even in the starting lineup, disciplined for having missed two practices last week.

Gamecocks Better Mind Then Talk

By VITO STELLINO
UPI Sports Writer

South Carolina is going to have to stop saying all those nasty things about the Atlantic Coast Conference basketball tournament.

Last year the Gamecocks breezed to the regular season crown but lost the NCAA bid when they were beaten in the post-season tourney by North Carolina State's slowdown game after John Roche was injured the previous night.

But this season the Gamecocks may have trouble finishing on top during the regular season and may welcome the opportunity to win the NCAA bid in the tourney. The Gamecocks were beaten for the second time in a week Saturday night when Maryland scored six points in the final 16 seconds of overtime to win by a 31-30 margin.

The game was a rematch of the celebrated game in South Carolina last month when the Gamecocks breezed to a 96-70 triumph but the contest was called because of a brawl with a 4:52 remaining. This time there were no incidents on the court or in the crowd of 14,312 as Maryland used a stall and led 4-3 at halftime. It was 23-23 at the end of regulation time. The loss left South Carolina with a 3-2 record in the conference while North Carolina, which beat the Gamecocks 79-64 last week, lead with a 3-0 record.

South Carolina Coach Frank McGuire took the loss calmly. In a reference to the post-season tournament, he said, "This wasn't the World Series. Everyone knows that in the Atlantic Coast Conference, it's the end of the season that counts."

The hero for Maryland was a 6-7 sophomore named Jim O'Brien, who was in the hospital from Dec. 14th until Christmas Eve with a bleeding ulcer and didn't start practicing until last Monday. He grabbed the rebound of Howard White's missed free throw and scored the basket that tied the game 23-23 at the end of regulation time and he then sank a 15-foot jumper at the buzzer in overtime to win the game.

South Carolina seemed to have the game wrapped up when Roche's two free throws made it 30-25 with 24 seconds left in overtime. But a basket by O'Brien cut the deficit to 30-27 with 16 seconds left, and White then stole a Roche inbound pass with 12 seconds left and Dick Stobaugh's basket with eight seconds left made it 30-29.

Bob Bodell then stole the intended for Kevin Joyce and fed it to O'Brien, who sank the winning basket.

Second-ranked South Carolina was the only team in the top 10 to lose Saturday night and 14th dropped a 78-75 decision to Memphis State, and 19th ranked Drake, which lost to Tulsa 66-60, were the only teams in the top 20 to lose.

Top-ranked UCLA rolled on with a 95-71 victory over Washington St., third-ranked Southern California downed Washington, 79-72, fourth-ranked Marquette whipped Xavier of Ohio, 91-60, fifth-ranked Penn topped Dartmouth, 92-77, sixth-ranked Western Kentucky beat Eastern Kentucky, 83-64, seventh-ranked Kansas was idle, eighth-ranked Kentucky beat Florida, 101-75, ninth-ranked Jacksonville whipped Miami of Florida, 124-82, and tenth-ranked Notre Dame beat Air Force, 75-71, in a Sunday contest.

UCLA had problems in the first half and held just a 41-39 lead at halftime but the Bruins routed Washington State in the second half. Coach John Wooden's team outscored the losers 12-4 in the first four minutes of the second half. Steve Patterson led the Bruins with 22 points and 16 rebounds.

Southern California, now 12-0, took a different route while beating Washington. The Trojans led 44-29 lead at halftime but blew the lead in the second half before rallying to win the game. Dennis Layton and Paul Westphal scored 16 each for the winners.

Marquette stretched its winning streak to 23 straight by downing Xavier as Dean Meminger scored 29 points.

In the Sunday game, Austin Carr scored 34 points as Notre Dame beat Air Force. Ron Wielert led the losers with 19.

THE PAYOFF — Singer Glen Campbell (R) presents a check for $22,000 to Bob Lunn, of Sacramento, Calif., winner of the Glen Campbell LA Open golf tournament. Lunn and Billy Casper went into a sudden death playoff for the first prize. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

Lunn Got Assist From Cameraman

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Bob Lunn, a possibly a cameraman—beat Billy Casper in a sudden-death playoff for the $22,000 first prize in the Glen Campbell-Los Angeles Open golf tournament, the first stop on the 63-event pro tour this year.

Casper said the click of a camera on the final regulation hole Sunday "ruined my tempo on my driving. I didn't hit the ball solid once after that."

"I necked it on the 15th (the first playoff hole), booked it on the 16th, sliced it on the 17th and pushed it on the 18th."

He saved par on all of them, however, but Lunn won it with a birdie on the 18th, hitting a wedge to within 18 inches of the flag.

It was the fifth victory for the burly, soft-spoken 25-year-old from Sacramento, Calif. He has been on the tour only a little more than three years and has won over $300,000.

"I'm just so happy I could cry and I might," the balding, 220-pounder said. "To play against a man like Billy Casper, and in a field this good, well, I'm just very, very pleased and honored."

Each had a final round 67 for 274, 10 under par on the Rancho Park golf club course. Art Wall, a 47-year-old former Masters champion who hasn't won since 1966, had a share of the lead until he three-putted the final hole, missing the second from three feet.

He had a 28 for 275 and was alone in third.

A group of four, including third-round leader Bobby Greenwood, followed at 277. The others were Phil Rodgers, Don January and Gibby Gilbert. Greenwood had a 73, Rodgers a 68, January 69 and Gilbert 70.

Edler Takes Stock Race

RIVERSIDE, Calif. (AP) — It's back to the 20 mile an hour tractor today for farmer-driver Ray Edler even though he's considerably richer from winning the ninth Motor Trend Riverside 500-mile race for grand national stock cars.

Edler, 28, hails from Caruthers, Calif., a tiny farming community where he and other family members grow alfalfa, cotton and black-eyed peas — and build fast race cars.

Edler sped through 191 laps at an average speed of 100.89 miles an hour to take his first victory in such a major race. His winnings were $19,165, all of which "goes back to the bank," he quipped.

Second in Sunday's grueling five-hour contest on the twisting 2.62-mile asphalt track was Bob Allison of Hueytown, Ala., who, like Edler, was driving a 1970 Dodge.

Allison, who gave Edler strong competition all the way to the end, earned $9,225 for the effort.

Third was Benny Parsons of Ellerbe, N.C., in a 1969 Ford, who earned $6,340 for his work. He was followed by David Pearson of Spartanburg, S.C., who was driving a 1971 Dodge entered by Bobby Isaac of Catawba, N.C.

Pearson took over driving chores in Isaac's car after more than half the race had been run. Pearson's 1970 Ford had blown its engine on the 25th lap. Pole-sitter Richard Petty of Randleman, N.C., dropped out of the race on the 107th lap, his engine suffering similar to Pearson's. Petty had held the lead most of the time after Pearson was sidelined.

Only 12 of the 40 cars that started were still running at the end.

25 years in the making.

We'd like to thank the makers of the other new economy cars for giving us such a nice head start.

It gave us time to develop an inspection system so ridiculously scrupulous that it expects every VW to pass 16,000 examinations.

It allowed us to find out (at a reasonably scientific pace) how we could double our horsepower without doubling the cost of your horsepower. (The VW still gets about 26 miles to the gallon and requests only a smidgen of oil.)

It permitted us to work on things that didn't even have to do with the actual making of the car. Medi-car, the Volkswagen Diagnosis System, for example. Electronic equipment that can spot trouble in a car before it gets to be trouble. When you buy a new VW, you get 4 free Medi-car checkups.

Of course, it took great fortitude to resist squandering our time on phony styling improvements.

The beetle looks just as good (or bad) as it did 25 years ago.

Pistons Beat Timetable

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Detroit Pistons have 36 National Basketball Association games left in which to match last year's total number of victories. If they stop there, it will be quite a disappointment.

The Pistons won their 30th game of the current season Sunday, whipping Los Angeles 118-109. The victory, in their 46th game of the season, left the Pistons one shy of their total number of victories all of last year.

In other NBA action Sunday, Philadelphia tripped Boston 115-107, Chicago walloped Buffalo 141-113, Phoenix downed Atlanta 116-105 and Milwaukee bombed Atlanta 151-99.

In Saturday's games, Philadelphia defeated Phoenix 123-112, Seattle topped Cincinnati 114-110, San Francisco downed San Diego 109-103, Milwaukee whipped Detroit 118-100, Cleveland took Buffalo 111-99 and Portland stung New York 114-96.

In the ABA Sunday, Memphis downed Pittsburgh 114-106, Virginia defeated New York 117-107 in overtime, Utah took Florida 128-116 and Denver downed Carolina 124-116.

Both the Lakers and Pistons took turns blowing 11-point bulges and their game went into the fourth quarter deadlocked at 86. But the hot shooting of Dave Bing and Terry Dischinger pulled the Pistons away in the final 12 minutes.

Jimmy Walker led Detroit with 29 points, Bing had 23 and Dischinger 19 including his last eight shots from the floor. Wilt Chamberlain and Jerry West had 25 apiece for the Lakers.

Billy Cunningham whipped in 31 points and Philadelphia beat Boston for the first time in four tries this season to move into a virtual tie with the Celtics for second place in the NBA's Atlantic Division.

Archie Clark added 24 and rookie Dennis Awtrey 19 for the 76ers. John Havlicek led the Celtics with 34.

Bob Love and Jerry Sloan combined for 20 points in the third period as Chicago shattered a tight game and whacked Buffalo. Love finished with 30 points, nine of them in the third period, while Sloan contributed 11 of his 21 points to the Bulls' surge.

Paul Silas connected on 17 consecutive foul shots leading Phoenix' parade to the foul line as the Suns topped Atlanta. The winners converted 46 of 51 free throws. Silas finished with 23 points while Clem Haskins hit 22 including 16 in the final period. The 151 points scored by Milwaukee against Baltimore and the 52-point margin of victory were team records for the Bucks. Bob Dandridge provided most of the scoring punch with 34 points while Gus Johnson was high for the Bullets with 17.

In the fourth period Johnson shattered the glass backboard, delaying the game 25 minutes. Johnson was removed to a hospital for precautionary x-rays.

Leafs Down Wings, 3 to 2

By RICHARD L. SHOOK

By United Press International

The National Hockey League Red Wings dropped the word "temporary" from in front of Coach Doug Barkley's title Sunday, the third organizational change in five days, and Detroit went out and lost, 3-2, to the Toronto Maple Leafs.

But the important thing to Red Wings fans was that they looked good losing, after winning Saturday night, and played their second strong game in a row—something they did not do when Ned Harkness was coach prior to the last two games.

In other NHL action, Philadelphia nipped Montreal, 3-2, in the first of the national television games: Boston thumped California, 7-4; Minnesota edged Chicago 3-2; New York kept pace with the Bruins by beating St. Louis 4-2; and Buffalo tied Los Angeles, 2-2.

The Red Wings, sixth in the NHL East, outshot the fourth-place Maple Leafs, 34-19, but Bill MacMillan's 14th goal at the 15:54 mark of the final period proved to be the winner when rookie Tom Webster bloomed a "knuckleball" goal for his 16th score over superlative goalie Bruce Gamble just 32 seconds later.

Norm Ullman had notched his 24th tally and assisted on Ron Ellis' 16th to give Toronto a 2-0 edge before Wayne Connelly deflected his eighth goal behind Gamble.

Phil Esposito scored his 38th goal to break a 4-4 tie while Ken Hodge and John Bucyk each added a pair as the first-place Bruins rolled past the Golden Seals.

Rookie Bill Lesuk made his second tally the winning one for the Flyers, who came from two goals back to defeat the Canadiens — who reportedly have a deal in the works for the Red Wings' Frank Mahovlich.

Netminder Denis DeJordy made three spectacular stops but Gerry Meehan slipped a fourth one past him to earn the Sabres their deadlock with the Kings.

Barry Gibbs popped in the winner on a power play with barely 1:30 to play as the North Stars topped the West Division's leading Black Hawks.

NEW SPORTS COMPLEX — Plans for a possible three-stadium sports complex in the Hackensack Meadowslands that would house the New York Yankees, the football Giants and pari-mutuel racing will soon be unveiled by the State of New Jersey, the Sunday Star-Ledger reported. According to State Community Affairs Commissioner Edmund T.

Hume, who has confirmed "serious" discussion between state officials and representatives of the Yankees and Giants, the stadium could become the largest of its kind in the nation. The 50-acre Hackensack Meadowslands site in Northern New Jersey is shown here in an artist's rendering as it will appear when completed. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

KBA Deadline Friday

KINGSTON

With just five days remaining before the Jan. 15 (Friday) deadline for filing entries for the 1971 Kingston Bowling Association tournament, Tournament Manager Carlo Perry said this morning he had no plans to extend the deadline at this time.

Perry admitted that entries are lagging but hastened to point out that past experience has shown that there is always a last minute flurry of entries which may make an extension unnecessary.

"We will pay the $1000 first prize, if we receive a minimum of 155 entries," said Perry. "Since the last three KBA tournaments in the years 1967 through 1969 drew entry totals of 170, 163 and 166 teams, respectively, and guaranteed the $1,000 top payoff, the 155 entry would definitely insure the same this time."

Perry pointed out, however, that during those years the KBA had to subsidize the tournament prize list from a reserve to meet the guarantee. It was an action which the local association directors have felt justified in doing in order to build up interest in the annual tournament.

That reserve has been virtually depleted, he said, and from now on it will be up to the bowlers to maintain team entries high enough to insure a guaranteed top prize of $1,000.

The $1.00 per man increase in each event has made it possible to more than offset the amount previously subsidized in order to pay the $1,000 with only 155 teams.

"To sum it up," said Perry, "give us 155 teams and the $1,000 guaranteed first prize for first place money stays."

Entry blanks are available in all KBA bowling establishments and KBA directors will be on hand each night to help any bowlers with their entry problems. The five-man event will be bowled Feb. 6-7 at Ferraro's Bowlers, with the doubles and singles on Feb. 13-14 at Sangi's Bowlero.

All details are covered on the entry blanks.

Hugies Defeat Coleman

NEW PALTZ

New Paltz High School Coach Frank Davis pulled out most of his starters in the fourth period of Saturday's game with visiting John A. Coleman and then had to bring them back as the Statesmen cut a 16-point lead to six markers in the final period. The Huguenot starters regained the momentum and the homemade went on to win, 76-71.

New Paltz is now 3-3 on the season. Coleman is 2-6.

The winners jumped out to a 22-8 lead and maintained that margin until midway through the fourth quarter. With Harold Anderson, Jay Ackert and Brad Hart doing yeoman work off the boards, New Paltz was able to break through the Coleman press with the fast break.

"We must have hit 30 points with our fast break," said winning Coach Davis. "Our rebounders did a fine job getting the ball to Ed Grainger and Rick Pesavento. The Coleman press was ineffective until I put in the subs," he said.

Grainger and Pesavento, two likely candidates for post-season honors, combined for 29 points in the backcourt. Grainger hit 19 and Pesavento had 10. Hart and Anderson scored well inside as Hart fired in 17 markers and Anderson contributed 13. John Palonis sparked the team, coming off the bench to grab important rebounds. Ackert played a fine, all-around game.

Coleman ace, "Dandy Don" Hastings, was outstanding for the visitors. Hastings hit from all over the floor and finished with a game-high of 24 points. Dan Mills also played well, hitting 17 markers. Steve Peruso, the Coleman playmaker, added 10 points in a losing effort.

Suffolk Gets Fall

SELDEN

Pete Nekos kept his undefeated streak going but Ulster County Community College wrestlers still went down to defeat, 35-7, to Suffolk here Saturday.

A former Section Nine champ from Rondout Valley, Nekos won his seventh in a row by pinning Ed McGann in the 134 lb. class at 4:15.

However Ulster had only one other bright spot and that was just a draw between Rick Feiler and Mark Raskin in the 167 lb. class.

Injuries again forced UCCC to forfeit two classes. Ulster is 1-4 with Farmingdale coming up on Jan. 23.

The results:
Suffolk 35 — UCCC 7
118 lb.—No contest.
126 lb.—Varone (S) pinned Perkins (U), 1:04.
134 lb.—Nekos (U) pinned McGann (S), 4:15.

It Was a Busy Weekend For Nordic Ski Club

ROSENDALE

The Rosendale Nordic Ski Club completed an active Hanover, N. H. relay classic; weekend with its Senior cross with 97 starters in its mass start cross country ski race on the Rosendale course; with its jumpers placing high in the weekend tournaments at Bear Mountain; and with three firsts in a Torger Tolle League cross country ski competition at Beacon.

Rosendale's top cross country runner, Weikko Salmela, a Finnish immigrant carpenter, matched strides with the best on the National A squad in the opening 10 kilometer loop of the Hanover Relay and finished the lap in 10th place with a very narrow time margin behind Mike Gallagher. National Cross Country Champ. Team mates, Anthony Battelle and Tauno Marjomaa, another Finnish import representing Rosendale, dropped three places in the next two laps of the three man 30 kilometer relay. Al Merrill, Dartmouth College Ski Coach and organizer of the Hanover classic relay race had superb support from the Dartmouth Outing Club in the administration of the complicated race which drew 135 contestants. Cross country ski race moved away fast and in union across a broad flat field which funnelled into the narrow woodland trails that meander thru the forests in the Binnewater area.

The 10 kilometer course was fast and the top racers were able to move along at lightning speed while the less capable used caution. Rosendale's Class A. racer won handily in 30 minutes 23 seconds beating his last year's time by 29 seconds. Birger Vignes, veteran ski runner from Bennington, Vermont, placed second in 33:25 to nose out Rosendale's Anthony Battelle who ran in 33:53. Vignes, who trailed Battelle for most of the race, explained that he had waxed blue stick on top of blue klisters to give him a faster ski as the day warmed up.

Of the 96 starters, 86 finished the race, the youngest of whom was 7 year old Kirsti Kanninen of Hopewell Junction. Alvar Ryman and Warren Daniell of Hanover, New Hampshire shared honors for being the oldest to finish, both being over 65.

State Loses Swim Meet

NEW PALTZ

New Paltz State swimmers are finding that the competition has improved as much as they have and it was again evidenced Saturday when the Hawks lost to Plattsburgh State, 63-50.

Expected to better a good dual meet record of one year ago, Art Stockin's aquatic squad has instead dropped to 2-4 despite sporadic individual brilliance.

Against Plattsburgh, a fresh star Larry Bushey set a pool record of 2:07.2 in the 200 yard individual medley and diver Steve Morgan won two events, but it all went down the drain when the Hawks lost the 400 yard freestyle relay, an event which could have given them a one point win.

Grant Inman paced Plattsburgh with two race triumphs.

New Paltz hosts New York Maritime on Feb. 3.

The results:

Plattsburgh 63 — New Paltz 50
100 yd. medley relay — Plattsburgh (Powers, MacIntyre, Engler, Gomez), 2:52.8.

State U. Freshmen Spark Varsity Win

NEW PALTZ

Four New Paltz College freshmen wrestlers scored wins as the Hawks humbled Plattsburgh, 29-11, here Saturday.

Bob Frazier took the 118 lb. class by forfeit; Frank Ford was victorious in the 142 lb. bout; Ted Cook grabbed the 158 lb. battle; and Paul Seltzer was tops in the 150 lb. showdown.

Seltzer's win was a 31 second pin over Mal Hackett.

New Paltz, 3-2, also received wins from Steve LoTurco, Gary Fesefeldt, and Steve Keene.

Hawk Cagers Are Beaten, But It Was the . . .

Best Performance

CORTLAND Saturday is one the Hawks will be shaking their heads at long after the season ends. It wasn't the kind of loss that costs a championship but New Paltz State's 95-94 overtime defeat to Cortland here the year for Si Pesavento's crew. Buried by eight straight losses until they finally won against Yeshiva, the Hawks came out looking like a basketball team and definitely playing like one.

New Paltz shot 63 per cent from the field but was unfortunate enough to be playing a Cortland team that was also hitting its peak to the tune of nearly 75 per cent.

The Hawks, with Dan Rogers knocking 17 points home on corner shots and drives and Don Valdez meeting the mark on his favorite shot from around the key, went in front early.

But Cortland stayed with New Paltz primarily because of senior guard Mike Eidel. A Poughkeepsie native, Eidel set the DCSL Central Section one game scoring record of 52 points while at Lourdes High School, and he was having another one of those nights. His final stats showed 35 points.

Up by four at the half, New Paltz remained in control after intermission with Cortland tiredly hanging on until the Hawks hit a momentary reversal. Poor shots and turnovers changed a 62-56 NP edge to a 66-62 home team advantage.

Now New Paltz started doing the chasing. Trailing 86-82, Valdez hit a jumper and then with ten seconds to go calmly sank two free throws to send the game into another period.

The five minute session developed into a battle between Earl Ingram of the Hawks and Dave Pitonzo of Cortland. The pair exchanged hoop after hoop with a foul shot by the latter being the difference.

Pesavento was strong in his belief that his team had played its best game and agreed that the Hawks didn't lose but Cortland won.

Valdez finished with 32 points, top individual total of the season for New Paltz. Rogers added 21 and Bruce Kreutzer added 16. Playmaker captain Glenn Kirsch was excellent in moving the club as the Hawks realized Pesavento's hope of bringing the ball upcourt with as little dribbling as possible.

New Paltz is now 1-9 but the season suddenly looks as if it can be salvaged. Paterson State is next on the road Tuesday.

Dear Abby

Great Gifts; None Fit

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I wish you'd say something about a problem I am sure many share.

Grandma loves to knit and crochet, so she gives her handiwork to members of the family as Christmas gifts. Unfortunately she never asks anyone's size, she just "guesses" and some of her creations are a fright. One grandson received a sweater which was unbelievably short. ("I ran out of thread on this one.") A nephew got a scarf which was no less than six yards long! ("Just keep wrapping it around your neck.")

The colors she uses are atrocious and the styles are from 40 years ago. We wouldn't hurt Grandma's feelings for the world, so we just graciously accepted her gifts, and put them away. But the problem arises when Grandma asks the younger children if they ever wear her presents. What should they say?

DEAR BAFFLED: "Not yet, Grandma."

Dear Abby: As parents of a two-year-old boy, we are somewhat concerned about the following situation. We have a nephew (around 30 years old) who is a homosexual. This isn't his first time. He's a fine, talented, very nice person, but he just happens to be a homosexual. Do you think we should ever let him alone with our son? Or would it be dangerous?

DEAR CONCERNED: A homosexual is no more likely to molest a child than a heterosexual (or "normal") person.

DEAR ABBY: My problem concerns my mother-in-law. She kisses her dog on the mouth, and then she kisses my children on their mouths! When I objected, she told me that her doctor said it was perfectly all right to eat out of the dog's dish because a dog's mouth is cleaner than a human's. Was she lying or is that doctor that I wasn't as loving and cooperative as I might have been. (I was somewhat "frigid.") I wasn't a "bad" wife, but I was "tired" most of the time, and must have been a great disappointment to my dear and patient husband all those years.

After my husband died, I had a thorough physical checkup and found out that I was terribly anemic and had a long list of other physical deficiencies. No wonder I was always tired! I am now taking medication to correct my condition, and as I told my doctor, if I had done this 20 years ago, I would have made my husband much happier.

Abby, please tell these chronically tired women to seek medical help at once, so they will never have the regrets I now have. Don't use my hometown, as someone might recognize this weeping widow. Sign me....

"TOO LATE!"

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope. For Abby's new booklet, "What Teen-Agers Want to Know," send $1 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069.

Jean Adams'

TEEN FORUM

SHE SAYS NO: (Q.) My girl friend and I have been going together for two years. We are 18 now and plan to be married in four years. I want us to make love but she won't.

She always gives an excuse, like we could get into trouble, or she might get a bad reputation and bring shame to our parents. Or, if she was my daughter, would I want her doing that with some boy?

I tell her all I want is a little, not enough to get into trouble. She says a little leads to a lot.

Is it really wrong? I love her, and respect her, and wouldn't ever leave her.—Faithful in Pennsylvania.

(A.) Your girl friend has a personal set of standards and I endorse them. If you do not accept and respect her rules, she is not the right girl for you, no matter how much you insist you love her.

She is correct, too, when she says a little leads to a lot. And you are incorrect in thinking that a little is not enough to get you into trouble.

DEODORANTS: (Q.) Should I use a deodorant in winter?—Sharp-Nosed in Maine.

(A.) Deodorants are in season in cold as well as warm weather. But do not try to use an odor inhibitor as a substitute for soap and water.

Bathe first, then use the deodorant.

(Want personal answers to your questions? Write to Jean Adams, Box 2402, Houston, Texas 77001. Only letters that include a stamped, self-addressed envelope will be answered.)

Quick Quiz

Q — Who was the first U.S. president whose mother lived in the White House?

A — James Garfield. His mother, Eliza Garfield, lived in the White House with him.

Q — What is the symbol of the Peace Corps?

A — An inverted "Y" in a circle. The bar of the "Y" extending through. Originally, it represented the semaphore code for ND (nuclear disarmament), but it quickly became a generalized peace symbol.

Q — What accounts for the rarity of the California condor?

A — They are rare because of a slow rate of reproduction. A condor does not breed until it is six years old and lays only one egg every two years.

Q — Are strains of the sugar maple bred to produce more or better sugar?

A — No. Trees tapped for maple sugar are just as they are found in the wild. No effort has been made to graft better some 40 years to get a good run of high-quality sap.

Q — What two fruits were crossed to make the loganberry?

A — A California wild blackberry and a red raspberry.

Q — Which was the first horse to win a million dollars in races?

A — Citation, with total earnings from 1947 to 1951, of $1,085,760.

Q — Which major league baseball park has the greatest seating capacity?

A — Cleveland (Ohio) Municipal Stadium, with a seating capacity of 76,977.

Q — Why is the Delmarva Peninsula so called?

A — It derives its name from the three states which occupy it, portions of Delaware, Maryland and Virginia. (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You are now able to establish a good neighbor policy where you live. You are also able to show others that you are the one who enjoys entertainment and recreation. Your creative skills should be at a new high. You can gain advancement with superiors by complimenting them on their achievements.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Ideal day for the social and other recreational activity you like. Talk over your finest ideas with associate and gain cooperation quickly. Don't monopolize the conversation.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Now is a good time to handle problematical affairs at home, which you have previously avoided, thinking it might make more trouble than do some entertaining at home. Invite charming persons.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) While shopping it is wise to purchase items to make your home look more artistic and charming. Remove whatever is no longer of use to you. Start communications with others that bring excellent results.

MOON CHILD (June 22 to July 22) Plan how to add to present income. Start wheels rolling in right direction. Listen to what a clever business person has to say. Be sure to schedule your time wisely.

LEO (July 23 to Aug. 21) A good day to talk with good friends about matters of long standing. Much assistance can be yours in the future. Accept a fine invitation that is extended to you.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Being secretive about new arrangements you want to make is wise if you want excellent results to follow. Put those ideas down in writing and avoid the possibility of forgetting them later.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) A generous friend will gladly go along with an idea you have for mutual advancement. Give this person a chance. The social can be particularly delightful for you now. Dress well.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Following the suggestions of one who has real influence and desires to see you get ahead is wise. Get involved in some civic matter that can boost your image considerably. Show a more pleasant face to others.

The 'Second Season' Arrives

NEW YORK (AP) — Television's "second season" arrived over the weekend with a flurry of new programs and specials. All this combined for diversity and spice which has sometimes been lacking in recent weeks.

"The Super Comedy Bowl" on CBS Sunday was an affectionate, kidding tribute to professional football that enlisted a spectacular cast of stars—John Wayne, Jack Lemmon, Charlton Heston, Lucille Ball, Carol Burnett and Flip Wilson were just the top-drawer names. There was also a squad of the nation's football heroes including Joe Namath and O. J. Simpson. Everybody was busy being funny.

The result was a crowded, uneven hour pulled up by a few deft sketches including one about the home life of a football hero and a very funny male fashion show of the latest in football uniforms. It was the kind of show that was most enjoyed by the hard-core football fans.

NBC's top correspondents were on hand for its annual year-end news review and look into the future. The conversation, steered by John Chancellor, was free-wheeling and enlivened by expressions of opinion—a meaty 90 minutes that covered the globe.

The educational stations, heartened by public enthusiasm for its "Forsythe Saga" series last season, have imported a new British series, "The First Churchill," a 12-part history of the first Duke of Marlborough, ancestor of Britain's war-time prime minister.

The first episode, seen Sunday, introduced viewers to the 17th century court of Charles II and its intrigue. It was a hand-some period piece with colorful sets and costume and surprisingly frank dialogue. Moving between scenes of battle, courtier, two children and a sister-in-law, he arrived in a small Southern town to become mayor pro tem. He immediately got involved with three old friends visiting from Mayberry, his home town—Don Knotts, George Lindsey and Paul Hartman. Griffith, once again, is playing the strong, central good guy while the comedians operate around him. It was pleasant, low-key entertainment with a little moral for the whole family.

Apollo 14 Astronauts Go Into Isolation

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP)—The Apollo 14 astronauts today began a 21-day period of preflight medical isolation to minimize exposure to disease or illness such as the measles contact which forced a late substitution in the Apollo 13 crew last year.

Astronauts Alan B. Shepard Jr., Stuart A. Roosa and Edgar D. Mitchell and their backup crew generally will be restricted to three areas of the Kennedy Space Center. These are the living quarters, the training building and the launch pad. They also will make one or two trips to nearby Patrick Air Force Base for practice flying in jet airplanes. Movements from one point to another will be watched carefully so the astronauts do not contact unauthorized personnel.

The Apollo 14 launching is scheduled Jan. 31 with Shepard and Mitchell to attempt a landing in the moon's Fra Mauro Highlands to search for ancient lunar soil.

Last April all three Apollo 13 astronauts were exposed to German measles a few days before launch. James A. Lovell Jr. and Fred W. Haise Jr. were found to be immune, but Thomas K. Mattingly was not and he was replaced hours before the launch by backup command module pilot John L. Swigert.

The isolation that went into offect today was the result. During the 21 days, only 112 persons will be authorized to work directly with the astronauts, compared with about 800 on earlier Apollo flights.

Most of the 112 will have only minimal association with the crew, some none at all unless necessary.

These prime contacts all have provided detailed medical histories, submitted to extensive physical exams and have been immunized against 10 common diseases, as have the astronauts.

School officials and physicians in the Cape Kennedy area have been given a list of the 112 persons and their families to help detect any potential disease carrier.

The wives of the astronauts will be allowed to visit, if not ill, but their children will be prohibited from direct access because of the prevalence of childhood diseases in schools.

The children will be able to talk with their fathers through

Apollo Mission Director Chesler M. Lee said: "We are going to have a medical officer on duty 24 hours, not only for the crew, but also for any of the primary contacts who feel they may have been exposed to anything that might transmit to the crew."

Lee said the isolation won't inhibit the ability of the astronauts to move around.

"For example, if they want to move from their crew quarters to the handball court on the third floor for exercise, the hall-

Viets Open A Clear Operation

SAIGON (UPI)—Allied military sources said today 2,000 South Vietnamese troops have begun an operation aimed at clearing the area around the road linking Saigon with the Cambodian capital of Phnom Penh.

Communist forces in Cambodia have cut other ground links with Phnom Penh, all but isolating the capital and forcing the rationing of gasoline and electricity. An airlift to provide the city with supplies and gasoline was being considered by allied forces.

The sources said the South Vietnamese operation began Thursday near the town of Kompong Trabek on Highway 1, about 50 miles southeast of Phnom Penh and 60 miles northwest of Saigon. No contact was made with Communist forces until Sunday, when four guerrillas were killed in a skirmish.

In Phnom Penh, military police raided a French-owned electronics shop early today and arrested five Vietnamese suspected of being Communist agents. Police said the names of seven suspects—including two not there when the raid was carried out—were captured from Viet Cong units during a battle southwest of the capital earlier this month.

Allied spokesmen in Saigon said that American and South Vietnamese troops killed 142 Communists in weekend fighting. Officials said 31 of the Communists were slain Sunday in a major battle 56 miles northwest of Saigon against South Vietnamese paratroopers.

On the Cambodian battlefield, government troops in a 14-day-old push to clear Highway 4 from Phnom Penh to the nation's only oil refinery and deepwater port 120 miles to the southwest, today awaited "allied" assistance, the operation commander said.

Military sources said today a fragmentation hand grenade was tossed into a group of American Army troops fighting among themselves at a central coastal base Saturday night. Twenty-seven of the troops were injured.

The sources said the fight started outside the enlisted men's club at Tuy Hoa base camp 240 miles northeast of Saigon. Military police tried unsuccessfully to break up the battle with tear gas.

As the fighting continued, someone tossed a fragmentation grenade into the melee and it exploded. So far, the sources said, investigating officials have not determined who threw the grenade.

Calley Trial Resuming

FT. BENNING, Ga. (AP)—An ex-GI who demanded and got immunity-for-testimony was summoned today as a lead-off witness in the resumption of Lt. William Calley's My Lai murder trial. But Paul Meadlo's lawyer said Meadlo might still refuse to testify.

Using a law fresh on the statute books, an assistant attorney general issued a grant of general immunity to Meadlo, who risked arrest earlier by refusing to testify. The immunity was granted during a 24-day recess.

The 27-year-old Calley—who spent part of his leave interviewing prospective witnesses—is accused of the slaying of 102 Vietnamese civilians. The six officers trying the case were not locked up over the holidays but were barred from reading or hearing news accounts about My Lai.

Bolivian Post Takeover By Army Officers Unit

LA PAZ, Bolivia (AP) — A group of rebellious right-wing army officers seized control of the armed forces headquarters in La Paz during the night, and President Juan Jose Torres vowed to liquidate the revolt.

A rebel spokesman, Col. Jorge Sanchez, claimed the rebels arrested several top officers at the headquarters, including the army commander in chief, Gen. Luis Reque Teran.

A government military source termed the situation "dangerous but under control." He said government forces were mobilized and could advance "at any time" on the military headquarters, which is only about 2 1/2 miles from the presidential palace.

Three air force planes flew over the city after midnight and fired their machine guns into the air.

A local radio station said the planes dropped a bomb near the military headquarters, but there was no confirmation of this.

The leftist military government charged that the rebels were trying to set up a "dictatorship of the right." It warned that "the people will fight for their revolution."

Col. Sanchez, the rebel spokesman, said the rebel movement known as the Nationalist Troops of the Armed Forces had decided to overthrow the government because it was on the verge of handing the nation over to "another imperialism."

Torres took to the air at dawn for a brief broadcast, rallying his supporters and promising to put down the rebellion.

An interior ministry communiqué called on students, peasants and workers to mobilize against the "subversive right-wing plot."

Sources close to the regime said the antigovernment leaders included Col. Hugo Banzer, transferred last week to a re-moté outpost on the Chilean border. Banzer was commandant of the military college but was accused three weeks ago of conspiring to assassinate Torres and install a new government.

The struggle between leftist and rightist officers in the armed forces began when Gen. Alfredo Ovando, after taking over the government in September 1969, began to move it to the left in response to the wave of
